Our Time

is of the essence. It controls the everyday lives of King Philip students. How many activities, clubs and teams we join and how much homework we do in a night, depend upon the amount of time we have. The relationships we develop are reliant on the time we dedicate to our friends, family, and loved ones. Our time is precious, and the people and activities we share it with mean the most to us in life. Our high school years are full of opportunities for us to shine and grow. We just have to make the

at King Philip is short, but an important part of our lives. The people we meet will influence the direction we head in, and the path we take. The teachers, parents and friends we come into contact with along the way, will each add to our dreams of the future. No one can force us to choose which road to travel, but they can guide us to a successful destination. Everyday from freshman through senior year is another landmark in our life's as teenagers is very busy and incorporates so many different events. We are always trying to test our limits, and we love to experience as much as possible. Whether we are trying a new sport, learning a different dance or making other friends, we give it our all. Determination and an adventurous spirit are valued very highly by students at King Philip. In our quest to succeed we experience all that our lives have to offer. Never giving up on our goals and dreams is the true meaning of My favorite junior high memory was...

Journey

Ryan Johnson and Brett Amidon

What team did you get on?, you excitedly asked your friend on the phone. It is the week before your first day of junior high, and you are nervous, excited and scared. It will be the first time you will meet your classmates from the other two towns, and you don't know what to expect. You hope that you will know at least a few familiar faces and meet many new friends.

The first day of school has arrived, and you are ready to go. You are wearing brand new clothes and your backpack is full of crisp new notebooks and freshly sharpened pencils. As you climb onto the bus, you take a deep breath and begin your career as a seventh grader at King Philip North. You take those first tentative steps into the building and stare in awe at the unfamiliar classrooms and hallways. You head towards your designated meeting place, making sure not to stare the big eighth graders in the eye. The first day flies by as you meet your fellow classmates and teachers. You are told of all the fun classes you will be able to take in seventh and eighth grades, such as music, art, and life skills, and you actually look forward to spending two years in junior high.

As the year goes on, you quickly settle into life at KPN. The other kids on your team become your close friends and when eighth grade arrives, you make a whole new set of friends on a different team. No matter how much fun you are having at the junior high, you look forward to high school where there are no more teams and everyone gets to know each other. You also can't wait until you can sit more than seven people to a table, and get to meet all the upperclassmen in the high school. Junior high is a time of learning and growing. It is when you discover your life-long friends and you realize who you really are. When the last day of eighth grade arrives, you can't believe how quickly the time passed. As you walk onstage to receive your diploma, you realize that in four more years you will be graduating from King Philip High School.

Life's Little Adventures

Lizzie Andreozzi

Everyone load the bus, you hear your teacher yell early on a Monday morning. It is the call that you have been waiting for for such a long time. After weeks of planning and a sleepless night full of anticipation, it is finally time. It is time to go to Camp Bournedale.

After twenty minutes of traveling, you begin to hear, from the back of the bus, the impatient calls of, Are we there yet? and How much longer? You begin to wonder if you will ever make it to the destination that you have heard so much about from your older siblings, neighbors, and friends, who had all gone when they were in sixth grade. You start to believe that you will never reach camp, just as your bus pulls into the driveway of Camp Bournedale. You are so excited you can hardly keep from shouting for joy.

You frantically jump off of the bus, grab the suitcase that your parents had helped you pack, and run to your cabin with the rest of your roommates. You are all talking nonstop with excited thoughts of what the week will bring. This week is going to be the best week ever, you think to yourself.

After what seems like a few short moments, you hear the call to load the bus once again. Has it been a week already? But I feel as if I've just arrived here, you say to yourself. You look back on the week and it is a blur of images of playing soccer, singing with your friends, and dissecting a shark. All I remember about Camp Bournedale is that we had to sing a song about a man's beard every time we ate, remembers Kristen Taylor.

You arrive home to see your parents eagerly waiting for you. They want to hear all about your week away from home. How will they understand that it was the shortest and greatest week of you life? You slowly walk off of the bus, say good-bye to your friends, and begin to tell your parents the tale of Camp Bournedale.

A crisp breeze hits your face as you run outside. You feel snowflakes melting as they hit your nose. You see the foot of glowing snow over the soccer fields and wonder what you're going to do at recess today.

You see all the students, who remembered their snow pants, run to go play in the snow. I always remembered my snow pants, says Dave Beaver. You see all of the kids jump in the piles of snow, build snowmen, and fall on their backs to make snow angels. I used to make snowballs, says Brett Amidon.

You start to notice all the fun the kids are having in the snow, but you can't join in because you forgot your boots and snow pants. Am I going to have any fun this recess? you ask yourself, as you look at your classmates playing in the snow.

Suddenly, you hear the sound of basketballs bouncing and jump ropes hitting the ground. You look behind you and see a big game of basketball being played in the corner of the parking lot, and you also see a group of people jumping rope. You look further and you see games of foursquare beginning. Foursquare was the biggest fad, says Kristina Cochrane. Everyone wanted to play it, and if you couldn't get a court you would use cracks in the concrete to make one.

As you begin to examine the parking lot further, you discover that most of your classmates forgot their boots too. There are so many activities to choose from, and you don't know which one to play. You frantically run from activity to activity in an attempt to try everything. You shoot a three-pointer while playing basketball, learn to do double-dutch while jumping rope, and win the foursquare match with your incredible shot.

When you hear the sound of the teacher's whistle, you give a big sigh because you know that your recess is over. But your fun isn't over yet. Before you go inside you catch falling snowflakes in your mouth. They feel cold on your tongue, but you don't care because now it's time to think about all of the fun things you will do at tomorrow's recess.

Celebrating with Friends

Joanne Caffrey

Trick or treat, smell my feet. This common chant can be heard every October 31. You anticipate the coming of Halloween from the beginning of fall, and the excitement doesn't dwindle until you have filled your giant bag with candy. The first order of business, for you, is to pick out a costume. This decision has always been very difficult, for you have to make sure that you have the best costume in the neighborhood.

After choosing your costume, you begin to think about all of the parties, parades, and candy that come along with this great holiday. Since Halloween falls on a school day this year, you get to parade around the school in your great costume along with the rest of your classmates. Before leaving school, you are given last minute Halloween safety tips. Don't eat any opened candy, you hear a police officer tell your class.

After helping your parents carve the jack-o-lantern, it is completely dark outside, and you know that it is finally time to go trick-or-treating. One of your parents takes you around the neighborhood with the rest of your brothers and sisters, while your other parent stays at home to hand out candy to trick-or-treaters. This night would be just as memorable as all of the other Halloweens from earlier years. I was chased around by former New England Patriot, Scott Zolak*, with a chain saw,* remembers Kristin Crisafi. While your Halloween might not be as memorable as Kristen's, you know you will have a great time.

During the weeks following Halloween, you spend your time dealing with candy. You trade all your Snickers bars for Butterfingers with your little sister, and you make graphs in school about all the different types of candy you collected on Halloween. As time goes on, your pile of candy begins to diminish, and you begin to focus your attention on other holidays—like Thanksgiving.

My favorite celebration during elementary school was...

Staying Within the Lines

Vhen you think of art class, you think of students' drawing, sculpting, or painting. While ur fabulous art teachers do a great job of teaching the importance of art, different echniques, and art history, students tend to learn much more. In art classes you are given ne opportunity to socialize while working. This kind of down time allows students to e much more creative. Mrs. Carneiro's theory is to relax with the process and go with ; if you make a mistake, you can always start over. Although Kelly Winslow appears be paying attention to her artwork, moments before she was gabbing away with Jess Kraby. he says, Art class is my favorite class. Not only do I get to learn different techniques using pencils, plored pencils, and water colors, but I get to relieve some stress too. We talk about our days and catch p on the weekends. It's great!

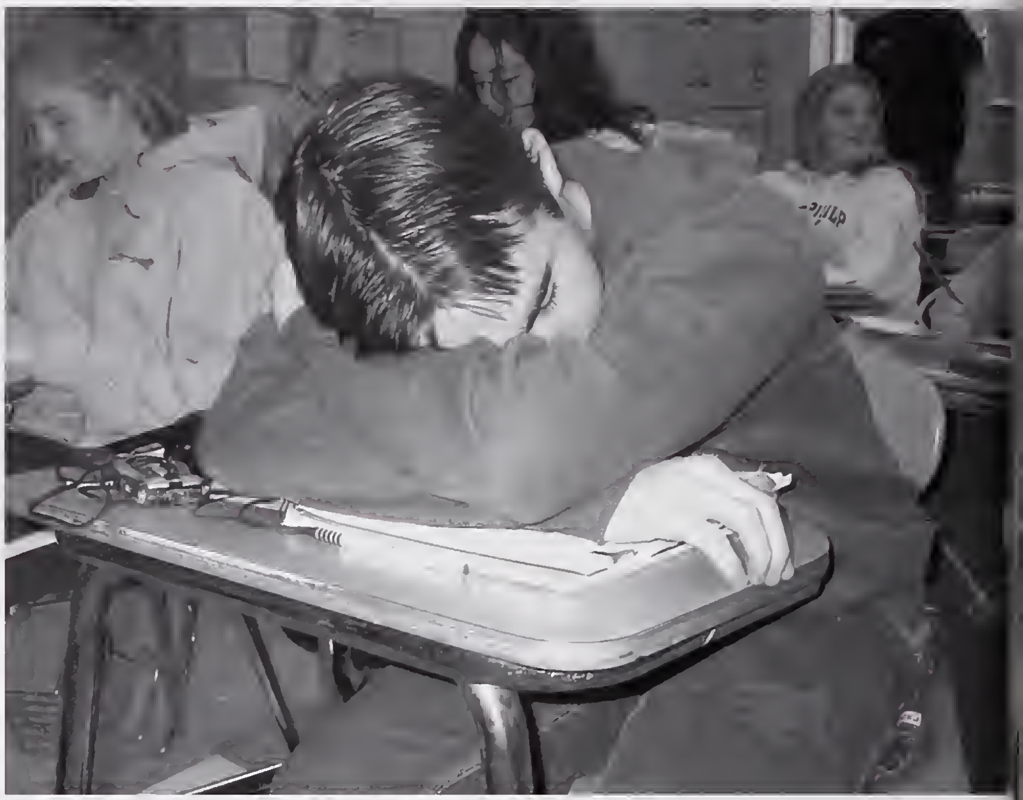
very year at soccer camp the girls' soccer team has a tradition of playing pranks on each ther. They switch each other's clothes from room to room and put shaving cream on each ther in the middle of the night. This year the girls were bored with the old time jokes so they hought of something new. Meredith Healey, a junior, told everyone that she would never vant to have a stalker. So as a joke during Mere's after-dinner-run through the halls, the enior girls decided that Janine Molino should chase after her. Janine followed her every nove for about half an hour. If Mere ran into someone's room and jumped onto a bed so did anine. If she ran into the bathroom, so did Janine. Meredith commented on the situation this vay. I didn't think she was just joking. I thought she just wanted to randomly follow me. It was razy!! Janine described the situation with a smile on her face. I was laughing so hard my tomach was hurting. We even caught it all on camera. It was great!

Just the Two of Us

Sleep Deprived



Doctors recommend 6 hours of sleep per night, for the average adult. As you know we ar not yet adults. So how many hours should we be getting? Research has shown that teenager need, on average, 8-10 hours of sleep each night. So after a long day at school, after schoo activities, homework and housework you need almost 10 hours of sleep. Is this eve possible? Let's calculate. 6:30 a.m. up for school, 2:25 p.m. out of school, 3:15 p.m. after schoo activity begins, 6:00 p.m. home, 7:30 p.m. start homework, 11:30 p.m. finish homework, an at 12:00 a.m. you finally can get to sleep. This leaves you about 6 hours of sleep. That's n where near the 8-10 hours you need as a teenager. So what can be done? Quite frankl nothing. You have to attend school and you need to do extracurricular activities in order t get into college so you can succeed in life. The worst part about the sleep situation is tha some school districts are looking to start school even earlier. Lucky for us KP does not agre

Athletes sometimes question the art of stretching. Before any practice and before all games teams spend time stretching every muscle they think they will be using. But sometimes it seems like students go through the motions, but don't really do it correctly. I think that if athletes took more time to stretch, then there wouldn't be as many injuries. Stretching is key for sports like gymnastics so then I can perform at my best without any injuries. If every athlete took the advice of junior Rachel White, then the halls of King Philip wouldn't be filled with as many students on crutches. Every week there seems to be another student with a leg in a cast. And why is Rachel such an expert? She learned her lesson about stretching during her sophomore year when she sprained her ankle during the field hockey season. She missed almost the entire season due to her injury. After that experience she changed her pre-game ways and took extra time to stretch. So the moral of this story is — STRETCH!

Ve've all had our fair share of New Year's Eve stories to tell...but this one tops them all!
Iayley Hayes wanted to spend the rest of her New Year's at Kayla McCaffrey's house. She vent to her house after midnight, and waited for Kayla to return from Emily Conrad's house, vhere she had spent her holiday. It was freezing out, so Hayley decided to wait in the garage hat was slightly open. However, the garage wasn't warm enough so she opened the door o go into the house. All of a sudden, the house alarm went off! She decided to hide behind er pillow on the front lawn for cover! Soon after, a car pulled into the driveway. It was Mr. nd Mrs. McCaffrey! Hayley had to introduce herself, and tell them she had set off their larm! Not five minutes later, sirens sounded and police surrounded the house! Mrs.
IcCaffrey explained everything and told them it was all right. I was freezing. What would you ave done?, Hayley explained. How's this for a great way to start off the New Year!

Happy New Year's!?

Pre-Madonna!

If you are a student at K.P. and you walk the halls in between classes, you are well aware c Nicolette Santino's marvelous voice! Her favorite thing to do is sing! Her ambition is, in fac to be a singer, like her idol, Madonna. It's amazing hearing such a strong voice coming fro such a small girl. One time at CCD the kids were asked to join an activity during church suc as singing in the choir or helping little kids with arts and crafts. Of course, Nicolette chos singing. Not fifteen minutes after she went up to sing with the church choir, she came bac down to her class with a pout on her face. When the rest of her class asked her what wa wrong, she responded with, They kicked me out! Oh yes, ladies and gentlemen, Miss Nicolett got herself kicked out of the church choir! The excuse they gave her was that they wante people with experience. However, we all know the real reason is that her voice is just too goo

Low-Down on Dating

e are all aware of the cutest sophomore couple, Mae Deevy and Brian O'Reardon. They ave been holding strong (as of December, 2002) for three months! They go all the way back their first date, the ever-so-famous, dinner and movie! However, a little bowling in the iddle sounded good to them! They saw Rush Hour 2, the funniest comedy out then; after ll, it does fit their fun-lovin' personalities! They went bowling afterwards and Mae won! 's a great accomplishment when you are able to beat your boyfriend at bowling, Mae proudly says. lthough Mae's favorite part of the date was, of course, beating Brian, Brian says his vorite part was just being with Mae! Aww, how cute!

One weekend when Jenn Cannon, Kaitlyn Winter, Kaitlin Holleran, Allie Horne, an Jess Barrett went up to Maine, they had an exceptionally interesting experience. Kaitli and Jess accidently threw a koosh ball into the water, and watched it float away. They ra to Allie's paddle boat. Kaitlin, Jess, and Jenn hopped in and began paddling after the koos ball! They finally reached it 100 yards into the enormous lake. Then Jenn decided sh wanted to go for a quick swim. When it came time for Jenn to climb into the boat, sh couldn't do it! She tried as hard as she could, but still no luck! Jess and Kaitlin couldn't hel because they were laughing so hard! Finally, Jenn made her way back into the boat, soppin wet and exhausted. It was so hard for me to get back on because I was laughing so hard in t process! It was so aggravating, but so funny at the same time! This trip left the girls with lastin memories and infinite laughs!

Happy Halloween everyone! Lauren Vesty says to the passing trick-or-treaters. For the fir year ever Student Council organized a Haunted Night. Any students between kinderga ten and grade 6 were invited to enjoy the new tradition. The students came to the scho all decked out in their Halloween costumes. There were many different costumes this yea The entire first floor was decorated for the event. Each room was assigned to a different K. club and featured a different theme or activity. In Lauren's room they played bingo wit the young kids. The winners were given treats. In addition to Student Council, NH SADD, Class Officers, Peer Mediation and Diversity Club were all involved. The clu members were all dressed for the occasion as well. Lauren, playing a witch that nigh summed up the experience. Haunted Night turned out to be a blast! Student Council appreciat all the work each club put in and all the young kids that came. I also enjoyed dressing up!

New Kids on the Block

The Class of 2006 has a great deal to offer to King Philip, yet the freshmen still have a lot to learn. Being a freshman can be incredibly intimidating because of being in a new school, with upperclassmen and coping with the work load. At the same time you feel so grown-up because you are finally a high school student. This sentiment came from Kate Sutton when she was asked in the fall how high school was different from junior high. One issue freshmen have to deal with quickly is Spirit Week which comes at the beginning of the school year. The freshman class is not really sure how much spirit is too much. Do you paint your entire body in green and gold, or do you just forget about Spirit Week all together? It quickly becomes evident, though, that King Philip possesses immeasurable spirit and pride. After mastering their schedules, battling the hallways, figuring out tricky locker combinations, and finding their way around school, the freshmen settle right into King Philip. Come the end of the year they will have figured out the tricks of the trade and feel one with the rest of the King Philip student body.

oh What a Night!

here's always that one point in the night during sleepovers when you feel like getting a little pontaneous, a little wild, and a little crazy! Sarina Habib can really relate to this feeling. One ight Sarina and her friend, Katie Sharron, went pool hopping. Pool hopping is when you un around your neighborhood late at night and swim in all your neighbors' pools. It was a ummer night and we were sweating so badly, Sarina explains, so we decided to have a little fun.
arina knows all her neighbors very well, and of course, they had given her permission to wim in their pools whenever she liked, so she did. Katie and Sarina put on their bathing suits one in the morning and swam in all of her neighbors' pools for about an hour. The next ay, of course, she told her neighbors about her late night adventure, and they just laughed her.

In September we see a wide variety of backpacks here at King Philip. They start out clear brand new, sturdy backpacks carefully purchased by the freshmen their first year of hig school. They come in all colors— blues and greys, and then the brighter reds, oranges, yellow pinks, and even tie-dyed. Also, they come in many different shapes and sizes. There are th shoulder backpacks, the paperboy style messenger bags, rolling, and standard two stra school backpacks. Rolling backpacks are becoming more and more popular with the freshme who are expecting a lot of homework from their new teachers. By the end of the year, th variety is gone. The zipper doesn't work; therefore, there are safety pins keeping the book from spilling out all over the crowded halls. There is writing all over the front, back, and strap done by bored friends in study hall. The bottom is almost in shreds from being tossed on th floor when the student arrived late. Or maybe it was dropped in the parking lot in the pourin rain while a hand fumbled through pockets for the keys to the dry interior. So what if it isn't pretty anymore! These backpacks have individuality and character.

Excuses, Excuses, Excuses

My dog ate my homework. This is a common excuse for students everywhere. Over the years, teachers have heard many different excuses for missing homework, being absent from class, or even just getting out of class work. There are overused excuses that teachers get every year, such as, My little sister colored on it. Mr. Bautz has a unique favorite excuse. I didn't think the young, blonde haired, intelligent teacher, Mr. Bautz, gave us a homework assignment. Flattery may be worth a try but it won't always work. Also, some teachers may let you get away with an excuse if it is one they have never heard before. One example of this is from Ms. Folliard. My teacher told us that if we told him an excuse that he had never heard before, then we were off the hook. My personal favorite was, You know how the dryer eats your socks, well, my backpack ate my homework. New excuses are always a good try, and even if they don't work, they're always good for a laugh or two.

The other excuses that teachers are frequently given are the ones to get students out of trouble for skipping class. Those students with cars try: I had to go out to my car to get my lunch money and then realized that it was at home, so I went home to get it. Also, the ever favorite: I didn't feel well, so I went to the nurse. She wasn't in her office, so I just went home. And at the beginning of the school year: I forgot we had class today.

Excuses are everywhere and new ones are constantly popping up. So remember, when you forget to do your homework, don't use just any excuse. Make it very original and make it count. And never, never, never use a unique excuse twice. Teachers remember the best excuses of the day and they share them with their peers.

Three Cheers for Old K.P. High

We all know Mrs. Buchanio as the head cheerleading coach here at K.P. Who would have guessed that she was a very successful and dedicated cheerleader all throughout her high school years! She was a Franklin, that's right K.P., F-R-A-N-K-L-I-N Pop Warner cheerleader all four years at Franklin High. She was first convinced to take up cheerleading in high school because she had always done dance and had done Pop Warner cheerleading as a child. The other girls used to say that she was double-jointed because she could fit both her legs behind her head. (Today doctors know that there really is no such thing as having double joints.) After high school, Mrs. B. did college cheering at UMass Amherst. When she came to K.P. it seemed odd at first because K.P. and Franklin have always been traditional enemies. She helped to coach hockey cheerleading and absolutely loved it. After all, she is a Boston Bruins fanatic. When the head cheerleading coach retired, Mrs. B. took over for her and is still the head fall cheerleading coach. Her favorite cheerleading memory??? the 1997 Thanksgiving game when Franklin won. Her favorite cheer??? K.P. stands for Kreme Puff! But that was in the past. Now Mrs. Buchanio is a proud member of the KP staff. But who does she cheer for on Turkey Day?

Friends Forever

Mrs. Campos
Business Department
My favorite teacher was Frank Rook, a business teacher. He made us laugh.

Some people have been friends since kindergarten, others only for a few years. If someone moves to a different town or state, then they must also transfer schools and therefore, meet new people. School is the place where everyone meets their friends. However, it is not just the students who make friends at school. Many teachers, especially at King Philip, are very close. Mrs. Tower even says, The teachers at King Philip are like one big family. You learn to work, live, and socialize. I have fun at KP, that's why I've stayed here for so long.

Some teachers at King Philip became such good friends that they even got married! Mr. and Mrs. Boucher are one of the couples who met here at KP. Mr. Boucher said, I have made many great friends while working and coaching here. I met my best friend, my wife, while working at KP, so I am very thankful that we both decided to work here! Other couples include Mr. and Mrs. Carneiro, Miss Proulx and Mr. Skenyon, and Miss Coutu and Mr. Besaw. And don't think is something new; there have been special friendships since the beginning of KP.

There are also more casual friendships. Everyone has seen, if not heard, Mrs. Villiard, Mr. Guernon, Mr. Beard, and Mrs. Knight laughing and joking together in the hallways in between classes. Go down another corridor and you see Mr. Finase, Mr. Kummer, and Mr. Guernon. And for that matter check out the Superintendant's Office when Mr. Guernon is on duty. It's another Comedy Connection. Are you starting to see a pattern here? Just like students who like to socialize, joke around, and laugh during passing period, so do the teachers (especially when Mr. Guernon is there.).

Friendships are what make life more fun and exciting. Without friends, the day would be dull, boring, and very lonely. This is why it is important that everyone meets new people and makes life-long friends, which is what people do at King Philip, even the teachers! Perhaps this is why King Philip has such a fun, friendly atmosphere!

Our Teachers' Teachers

Throughout your school years, you will encounter, or might have already met the one teacher who will change your outlook on life. The teachers here at King Philip have learned much from, and have been inspired by, their own teachers. They may have adopted part of their teachers' teaching styles, or even gone on to teach in the same subject area.

Mr. Ferreira's favorite teacher was James Ascoli, a math teacher and drama director. He assisted Mr. Ferreira in getting through math even with his lack of math skills. He also showed Mr. Ferreira what drama was all about. Mr. Fayle's favorite teacher was Mr. Pelligrini, his high school history teacher, who was funny, animated, interesting and showed that he cared about his students. Mr. Pelligrini may be why Mr. Fayle shows such enthusiasm in the classroom!

Mrs. Erickson, Mr. Boucher

Miss Figueiredo's favorite teacher taught geography. He was very intelligent, well-travelled and a great communicator. Miss Figueiredo's love for the world may be derived from her early studies of the places around her and may have influenced her choice to be a French teacher. Mr. Doherty's favorite teacher was his Latin teacher who had a good sense of humor. Mr. Motovich, who taught a dynamic course in art, was Mrs. Erickson's favorite. Mr. Boucher's favorite teacher was Mrs. Erickson and interestingly enough, now they are colleagues! All of these teachers have helped to make the faculty at King Philip the best it could possibly be, and it is because of them that we enjoy high school and have learned so much. As you continue on in your education, in and out of high school, keep in mind that the teachers that you have today may very well influence your profession tomorrow. Who knows, maybe you'll be a teacher someday!

My Best Gift

Everyone receives a gift in her life that she will never forget. For Mrs. Boucher it was her engagement ring. Mr. Boucher and I are both animal lovers and we have a dog named Niemon. He put the ring on Niemon's collar and told me to check the dog because he had a scratch. When I went to pet the dog I saw the ring and knew it was for me. It was the best gift ever!

Mrs. Greenleaf's favorite gift was a hot air balloon ride. It was my wedding present! My husband and I had to wake up at 5:00 a.m. to meet the man who owned the balloon. There were two other balloons that went up in the air with us. It was a clear, gorgeous day and the view was amazing. We went up so high that we could see the White Mountains, Boston, Worcester, and the Cape. The landing was a little scary because the wind was so strong, making it hard to get down! First, we had to find a place to land. We finally found an open field, but the wind was so strong that it took six people called the 'ground crew' to pull us down with all their might. Then, when we finally landed, we had to hike through the woods to find one of the other balloons that had crashed in a tree! Luckily, everyone was safe and the balloon was unharmed. It was definitely an amazing experience and the best wedding gift I could have ever had!

Mr. Guillemette

The best excuse that I've ever heard from a student for missing homework is that he lost power during a storm and was unable to work.

Birthdays, Birthdays, Birthdays

Everyone loves birthdays! You get presents, a cake, and everyone has to be nice to you on your special day. But there is another aspect of birthdays that all of Mrs. Lambert's students love... THE BIRTHDAY CROWN! The birthday crown is a giant hat in the shape of birthday cake that Mrs. Lambert makes her students wear on their birthdays while the rest of the class sings to them. While some students turn as red as a tomato with embarrassment, other students love to wear the birthday crown!

Justin Bourke

Last year there was a contest to determine who would wear the crown the longest. It all began when Josh Leventhal asked to wear the crown for the entire period instead of just the duration of the birthday song. Next, Tim Huth challenged this record by sprinting to chemistry class and wearing the crown from the second that the first bell rang until the end of class. The winner of this contest, however, was Justin Bourke, who wore the cake shaped hat for an entire lunch period! So, is Justin the winner of the birthday crown contest? Or will one of Mrs. Lambert's future students beat the record of wearing the crown for 75 minutes straight? Maybe someone will even be brave enough to wear the crown for an entire school day! Who will be the final winner of the Crown Contest? Unless your birthday comes in July or August, it could be YOU!

What's Your Favorite Cafeteria Food?

Often times, in books or on television, there is a negative connotation that goes along with school cafeterias. There are the stereotypical lunch ladies who serve mystery meat and wear big aprons, hairnets, and frowns on their faces. Although this stereotype is one that most people think of when they think about going to lunch at school, the teachers here at King Philip think differently. Many teachers, such as Mrs. Belcastro, Mrs. Barrett, Ms. Southworth, Miss Smestad, Mr. Mitchell, Mrs. McCourt, Mrs. Neubauer, Mrs. Heagney, Mrs. Villiard, and many, many others look forward to lunch on Thursday, which everyone knows is taco day. Tacos are a big hit at King Philip with both teachers and students.

Another favorite is the school's pizza. Mrs. Pfeffer, Mr. Guernon, and Mr. Simarrian just can't resist when pizza is on the menu. On days when there is no pizza or tacos, the chicken wraps are a must. The lunch ladies always have smiles on their faces and are extremely helpful with the choices of spicy, popcorn, teriyaki, caesar, or grilled chicken. Caesar chicken is Mrs. Martin's favorite.

Ms. Masciarelli
Science Department
My favorite vacation spot is the mountains in the New England area.

The chicken burgers are also a big seller here in the King Philip cafeteria. Mr. Oles, Mr. Grover, and Mrs. Viles-Antonellis are often seen eating chicken burgers, sometimes even spicy ones! Other teachers such as, Mrs. Zuercher, don't particularly like cafeteria food; however, they love the ice cream!!

So why aren't all the teachers in the cafe during lunch? Most will tell you that there isn't enough time to go to the cafe to get a lunch. Others want to avoid the temptation of a full meal, and eat a carton of yogurt instead. Finally, some find a lunch bag from home an easier way to use up leftovers.

When Our Teachers Were in High School

Mrs. Pfeffer
Health/Physical Education Department
The best gift ever given to me was my daughter.

In high school, almost everyone participates in some type of extracurricular activity, such as a sport or a club. A few popular activities that students enjoy today are sports, drama club, peer leadership, band, and many more. But have you ever wondered what our teachers took part in for fun when they were our age? Mr. Pagnini, whom we all know today as the funny, outgoing physics teacher, was a proud member of his high school's jazz band. A few other teachers who participated in band are Ms. Bremer, Miss Folliard, and Mrs. Mullaney. Mrs. Pfeffer loved to play sports and was on the field hockey, basketball, and softball teams, which certainly explains why she became a physical education teacher! Mr. Simmarrian was also quite athletic. His favorite sports were basketball, football, and baseball. Miss Proulx led her fellow students as class president and a member of the National Honor Society. She also showed her school spirit by being a cheerleader. Finally, Mr. Oles and Mr. Boucher were members of the cross country and track teams right here at King Philip! In fact, they both loved running for KP so much that they not only came back as teachers, but now enjoy coaching the same sports they participated in when they were younger. So, if you have ever thought that any of these activities sounded like fun or have considered joining them, just talk to one of these teachers about their high school experiences in clubs! They will surely tell you many great stories that will make you want to take part in the activities that King Philip has to offer!

Role Models

While growing up, there is usually a person in your life whom you look up to and admire. Many teachers, such as Mr. Kramer, Mrs. MacDonald, Mr. Oles, Mrs. Scannell, Mr. Doherty, and Mrs. Zuercher, chose to look up to an older family member, such as a parent, grandparent, or sibling. Another common role model for young people is a teacher or coach. Mrs. Boucher said that, when she was a child, her art teacher was her role model.

Some role models, however, are a little more creative. For example, Mr. Guernon, whom we all know today as a funny, outgoing teacher, says he looked up to Godzilla in his youth! Miss Frey, who grew up in the 80's, says that her role model was Madonna. Another common theme when chosing a role model seems to be movie stars. Mrs. Heagney loved Charlie's Angels, while Mr. Pagnini looked up to Indiana Jones. Mrs. Cannon's role model as a child was Mary Tyler Moore.

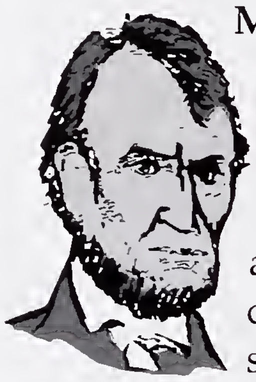
Mrs. Lambert's role models were her parents when she was younger. My father was also a chemistry major and teacher, she said. He taught at Indiana State University until he retired when he was 67. As a child I looked up to his intelligence and integrity. He is truly a good person.

Mrs. Stankiewicz
Information Technology Department
If I could trade places with someone for one day, I would become Bill Gates. Then I would spend the day shopping!

Many sports fans look up to famous athletes as role models. For example, Mr. Simarrian answered quickly that his role model was Teddy Ball-Game, otherwise known as recently deceased Red Sox star Ted Williams. Mr. Simarrian also admired his high school biology teacher who was also his football coach.

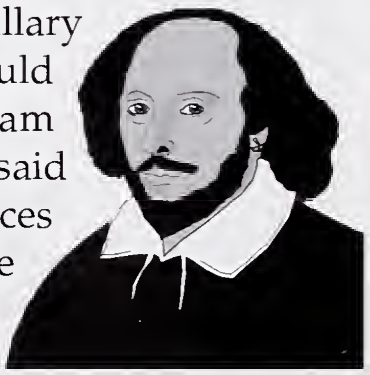
So, as you can see, role models can come in any shape and size, but no matter what, it's important that children have at least one role model to look up to. Who would you say is your role model?

Trading Places



Most people, at one time or another, have wanted to trade places with someone, for whatever reason. Usually, the people with all of the glitz and glamour are the people who fans want to be. Ms. Smestad said if she could trade places with anyone, she would go to the big screen and trade with actress Julia Roberts. Mrs. Martin wants to stay on the small screen and trade places with Katie Couric. Mrs. Tower would like to hit the courts and trade places with Michael Jordan so she could be the best at every sport. Ms. Bremer would choose to become Nefertiti so she could see life in ancient Egypt. Mr. Besaw, the English whizz, would also like to go back in time and trade places with William Shakespeare. Mr. Mitchell would like to trade places with Sir Issac Newton, so he could be the person to invent calculus.

Many other teachers would like to trade places with present day polititians and people well known for their money. Mr. Kramer, feeling generous, said that he would like to trade places with Bill Gates, and donate all of his money to King Philip. Mr. Guernon would like to trade places with John F. Kennedy. Mrs. Heagney would like to trade places with former first lady Hillary Clinton. Mr. Peter Boucher would like to trade places with Abraham Lincoln, while Mr. Simarrian said that he would like to trade places with George Washington, so he could see what it was like to be the first president of the U.S.



So if you are thinking that you are the only one in the world who has ever wanted to be someone else, remember, teachers want a little change sometimes too.

Vacations

Mrs. N. Tower
Fine Arts Department
The best gifts I have are life and laughter.

Everyone loves to go on vacations! They are fun and provide a chance to relax and get away from the stresses of everyday life. Here at King Philip, our teachers have been on many interesting and exciting vacations. For instance, both Mrs. Villiard and Mr. Young have been to Bermuda and loved its beautiful, tropical atmosphere. Many other teachers have taken vacations to foreign countries, such as Mrs. Zuercher who has been to Paris, Mrs. Lambert who has been to Germany, and Mr. Ferreira and Mr. Fayle who have both been to London, England. Also, Mrs. Viles-Antonellis has been to Amalfi, Italy, while Mr. Oles has traveled to Amsterdam.

We cannot forget Disney World in Florida as a popular vacation spot! Both Miss Proulx and Mrs. Raymond agree that Disney World is the best place to go on a trip. Mrs. Greenleaf, who likes to be surrounded by nature, loves to go camping. Her favorite camping trip was in Alaska where the scenery was absolutely amazing.

CONTINENTS

Some of the best vacation spots are right next to home. For example, Mr. Finase loves to visit Newport, Rhode Island. Mrs. Erickson and Mr. Keleher both enjoy traveling north to Maine. Miss Coutu is even happy to vacation in her backyard with a large pool and a beautiful garden. That's certainly being close to home. And almost everyone loves to go to the Cape, like Mrs. Tower, Mr. Guillemette, and Mrs. Pavao.

Mrs. D. Tower

And don't forget honeymoons. They are a very special kind of vacation. Mr. and Mrs. Boucher, for example, traveled to Key West after their summer wedding and had a fabulous time. Mr. Massotti also was recently married. My wife and I just traveled to Hawaii in July for our honeymoon. It was a beautiful island and we had a great vacation.

Unsung Heroes

Mr. Gardner
Custodian in charge of school repairs

When someone hears the word "faculty," they automatically think of their math, history, science, or other classroom teacher. However, one part of the educational support staff is often overlooked. These are the school custodians and cafeteria staff. Custodians are a very important part of our King Philip staff. They keep our school clean and our classroooms warm. Think about all of the papers and trash that would be all over the school if it weren't for the custodians. Also, if you have ever forgotten a book in your locker and need to come back to school and get it, the custodians are always kind enough to unlock the doors to let you in, even if they have just cleaned the floors. The custodians are always there to help clean up a spill or put more paper towels in the bathrooms. For this, everyone is grateful.

King Philip's cafeteria staff is among the best. The ladies have always provided us with great meals and friendly smiles. Their excellent cooking includes delicious wraps, pizza, and chicken burgers. Without the cafeteria staff, students would have to either bring their own lunch or starve! With the help of our cafeteria staff the students of King Philip are able to enjoy hot, fresh foods at a fair price of one dollar and fifty cents. Now that's a bargain you won't find at any other restaurant!

Families, families everywhere! Everywhere you look, there is a parent/child pair around somewhere. Mrs. Barrett and her daughter Jess are both whizzes when it comes to math. Mrs. Lambert and Brittney both have a knack for sciences. Hmmm... could it be in the genes? Mrs. Cannon, a teacher's aide, and her daughter Jenn can be found in the hallways between classes, always ready to lend a helping hand or tell a lost freshman how to find his class. While Andrew Solomon studies hard for his next test in the Media Center, his mom, Mrs. Solomon, works there, helping us with our many researching and photocopying needs. Also, Kara Winslow and her mom, Mrs. Winslow are often seen chatting in Mrs. Winslow's office about various subjects. One of the few teacher sibling pairs in the school is Mr. Oles and his younger brother Brian Oles. At least one member of the Oles Family has been in the school for many years, whether it be as a teacher or student.

Along with the parent/child pairs running around the halls of KP, there are also a few husband/wife combos. Mr. and Mrs. Carneiro are a phys. ed. work of art. Mr. and Mrs. Boucher's shared love for running and Mr. Boucher's dogs are what brought them together just last year. Also, the up-and-coming couple, Mr. Skenyon and Ms. Proulx, were recently engaged and soon to be married. We can hear the wedding bells ringing already.

Last, but not least, are the new and expectant mothers. Though they will only be in the school for a few months this year, you can bet that the offspring of new mothers Mrs. Cress, Mrs. MacDonald, and Mrs. Bertram, and expectant mother, Mrs. Heagney, will be running around the halls of KP in another fifteen years, always under the watchful eyes of their mothers and the other teachers here at KP.

Now and Ther

At one point or another, everyone looks at a picture from the past and thinks to him or herself, What was I thinking? Miss Figueiredo, for example, said, I used to perm my hair, but now I look back and say, how could I have done that? Over the years, fashion and hairstyles have changed many times. Also, jewelry styles have gone down in size. Every decade is known for a certain trend, for example, leg warmers and feathered hair in the 80's and disco dancing in the 70's. Obviously, people change with these trends.

Students have often wondered many things about their teachers, such as family life and hobbies; however, the questions most asked are, What were you like years ago? and What did you look like when you were my age? In response to these questions, Mrs. Mannering replied, When I was young, the rocks were soft, the dirt was new, dinosaurs roamed the earth, and everybody spoke Latin. Mrs. Pfeffer looked back on the 1980's and said, I was a young mother raising my daughter. I enjoyed playing softball with a bunch of friends in the early 80's, and now I enjoy playing golf. Mrs. Carneiro reminisced, Ahh! the 80's! I used to be into perms and big hair. Now, however, I'm glad that trend is over. I'm now enjoying my straight hair.

Even though fashions and hairstyles have changed over time, some situations always stay the same. Mrs. Tower says, Even though I've been at King Philip for years, things still seem the same. I still love working with all my students and coworkers. Even though years have past, I still love everything about KP. I guess some things never change.

Spring Has Sprung

Mikaela Noble, Lindsay Wyman, Jackie Olson, Shannon Steele

It's evident that spring is in the air at KP when you see guys running the basepaths and girls running to get their nails or hair done for upcoming dances. From baseball to formals, the spring season was filled with sunshine and excitement. Also during these warm months at the year's end were events such as the Newport trip for sophomore and junior history classes, Singled Out hosted by student council, Class Competition, all the other thrilling spring sports, and of course graduation.

Every King Philip student and parent was filled with pride and admiration for the baseball team, which made it all the way to the state championship game after a great season. To support the team in its final game, many KP fans traveled all the way to Worcester to cheer the boys on from the stands. Getting to this very important game was extremely difficult for many drivers, even with directions. First, people had the problem of finding out where the game was being held, then the problem became where to park, but in the end KP was well-represented.

The proms, frolic, and semi were added entertainment for the spring season. It was a unique spring in that none of the formal dances were held at Lake Pearl Luciano's, which is normally a staple for dance life in Wrentham. The freshmen got their first taste of formal dances when they attended the frolic in the rubber gym. It was quite a sight to see limos in front of the school and the field house turned into a beautiful scene. The sophomore semi, held at Christina's in Foxboro, was also a huge success. Although it was the first time that a dance had been held at Christina's, everyone thought it was a perfect choice. The junior prom was a magical night as well. Held at Glenn Ellen Country Club in Millis, the event allowed all the juniors to get decked out in prom attire and dance the night away with their friends and dates.

Although the spring is a time when we say goodbye to our senior class, it is also a busy time filled with thriving sports and activities for all KP students to enjoy before taking finals and leaving for the much anticipated summer break.

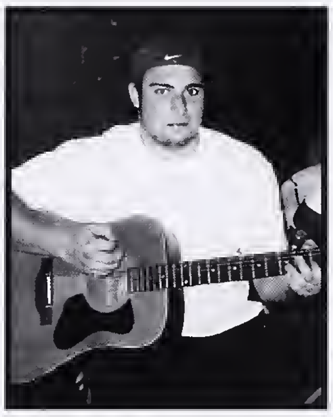
While most King Philip students were hanging around the tri-town area this summer, others were attending or counseling at various summer camps. The cross-country team stayed cool during their rigorous week away. Bill Cobb and Ken Tellum can vouch for that. During a relay competition against the Barnstable cross-country team, the opponents, the Barnstabillions, tipped the boys' canoe. Ken and Bill weren't the only ones who got wet. The entire team slept in sopping wet clothing on the final night after three straight days of running in the rain. That night sleeping in wet clothing was wicked gross and the smell wasn't too great either, laughed Ken Tellum.

Raindrops were not just falling on the cross-country team. At soccer camp, the freshman girls performed during mealtimes. The song, Rain Drops Keep Falling on My Head, was one of their most memorable numbers during the week. Everyone especially loved the hand motions that went along with the song that Brittney O'Hara taught them. Anyone who knows Brittney knows how talented she is at dancing; one can just imagine the soccer girls shaking their hips just like her.



Another musical prodigy came from the football team. Peter Chillemi serenaded the team with hits from movies like Mary Poppins and Pocahontas at mealtime. His fifty-two brothers thoroughly enjoyed the show. Even though the camp was held at the high school, the week proved to be well worth it. Senior captain, Tom Hayes says that by the end of the week the team was closer then ever before.

Jenna Kraby, Lizzie Andreozzi, Steph Knowles, and Katie Johnson had countless tales to share when they came home from counseling at a camp all summer. Apparently, these girls had spent the summer swimming and splashing with an alligator that lived in the lake at their camp!

So when do you think your camp days will be over? We think that we have a few years ahead of us before they end. Hey, Mr. Pagnini still goes to camp! Why not?

Sun Splashing

Upperclassmen can finally enjoy the fun and excitement of traveling to the beach with friends now that they have licenses and cars. Just ask Tim Concannon and Barry Costello. On their way to Horseneck Beach, a huge truck carrying hay nearly flipped over on them while they were driving. An accident like that could ruin a beautiful beach day, and all the rest of the summer as well.

Oceans or lakes—these were both hot spots for many King Philip students. Some of our classmates are lucky enough to live on one of Wrentham's lakes and got to cool off in them whenever they wanted. And if you didn't want to get wet—Ben Henderson and Mike Stuart transported friends back and forth across Lake Archer in boats this summer.

Others just sat around in pools and relaxed. Take Jenn Cannon, for example. Her poolside was always filled with friends just dying to get away from the summer heat and relax. When she wasn't resting, she was hosting pool parties such as her lacrosse team party. One guest, Sasha Provost, said about Jenn's parties, we had barrels of laughs playing Marco Polo.

While summer was a rest period for many, not everyone got to spend their summer at the beach or at cookouts. Lots of people worked hard for their summer cash flow. King Philip students could be found working at the Wrentham Outlets or at differents camps. Erin Cleary worked at D.A.R.E. Camp and said that the kids were adorable and that she can't wait to see them at camp next summer.

In the end, we don't think anyone would complain about their summer. In fact, most either wish it were still summer or are counting down the days until school gets out.

Many moments captured within the walls of King Philip are picture perfect. Other moments, however, can be defined simply as embarrassing.

One of the best ways to capture someone at their worst is with candid photographs. Ryan Johnson would probably prefer that this picture of him in the midst of dinner be thrown away, but instead it is now the source of entertainment for all his friends and classmates.

Laura Gaudioso is also no stranger to embarrassing moments. Laura, however, creates them on the spot. Often times, her friends rely on her for a laugh during a boring day and she can be seen producing what many would call embarrassing moments all the time. With her crazy faces and great sense of humor, she certainly is fun to be around.

Another girl who is considered to be the life of a party is Brittney O'Hara. Upon witnessing a fallen piece of string cheese on the ground in the cafeteria, Brittney felt the need to point trash out to the camera. Everyone at King Philip now knows that trash belongs in the trash can because of Brittney's quick thinking and interesting facial expression.

Nicolette Santino, preferring not to be caputured in an embarrassing moment, tried to hide her face from the camera and created an even more hilarious situation. She proves that when times like that arise, they cannot be avoided!

Whether they be candid or purposeful, embarrassing moments always provide fun, laughs, and entertainment. And even though some people may not see the humor in their photo right away, with a little time most people realize that these moments could happen to anyone, and usually do.

Embarrassing Moments

The King Philip community prides itself on having a variety of students who participate in the many school offerings. Knowing this, it is easy to identify certain people, groups of friends, and even classes with a certain idea or thing. For example, the Class of 2003 can always be identified with school spirit! Give them an event and they show up decked out in green and gold!

When dealing with specific people, it is also easy to see what each individual represents. Jess Barrett, a sophomore, is known for making the best out of every situation and always manages to have fun. Jill Petruchik, a senior, is known for her unique antics and expressions. She can always be seen making people laugh. Craig LaValley is another senior who is known for his antics. On the other end of the spectrum is Ben Purkis, who is an extremely studious person, bound for success in whatever he pursues. In a similar category is Justin Bourke who always seems to succeed with the ladies. At proms, dances, and even just in the hallway, Justin is always the ladies' man.

Countless others can be identified with a certain thought. People such as Ken Tellum, Lauren Briere, and Kendra Willete love being with their fellow runners and are often spotted in the King Philip area together. Ben Henderson and Sara Procyk seem to always enjoy themselves in class, senior girls are always having fun, the band is always excelling, and the junior girls are always found together!

Brittney Lambert, Sara Streeter, Chelas Poirier and Ashley Daubenmire are four junior girls who can be found together everywhere. They do everything from sports, shopping, homework, projects, and parties together. They are such a tight knit bunch that they have fun wherever they go!

In addition to the junior girls, numerous combinations of senior girls can be seen together in countless places. You can always identify the senior girls as having spirit, athleticism, and fun! Many spend time at Applebee's or at football and basketball games, supporting King Philip athletics.

Homecoming week is one of everyone's favorite weeks of the school year. Traditionally, the week begins with pajama day on Monday. This may be the most popular day of the week. Who doesn't love wearing pajamas to school? The week then ends with green and gold day which is also the day that the senior class takes their class photo. Usually the rest of the week consists of Hawaiian day, class color day, and crazy hat/hair day, but this year student council decided to be creative. They replaced Hawaiian day with college tee-shirt day and it was a success. It reminded seniors to get cracking on their college applications and underclassmen that it is never too early to start looking at colleges. Another big change this year was class color day. It fell on Wednesday as opposed to the normal Thursday. Thank goodness for that move! Often times seniors were caught wearing the same green clothing two days in a row, which made for quite the stench in the senior hallway in years past.

Speaking of green, the gymnasium was filled to the brim with K.P. students decked out in green and gold on Friday during the pep rally. Taking time out of class for a Homecoming rally is a long-time tradition at King Philip and is always a hit. The enthusiasm of the marching band, cheerleaders, and student council members got the crowd going. All the team captains were commended for serving as examples of excellence in leadership. Finally, the homecoming court was announced. Nicole Puddester and Minhaj Rahman reigned as queen and king. Their court consisted of Steph Knowles, Craig LaValley, Christina Powers, and Mike Stuart. Everyone thought they were the perfect choices. Finally, the announcement everyone had been waiting for came. The senior class had won school spirit week!

That night the school was hopping. A good-sized crowd showed up to boogie the night away at the homecoming dance. Brandi Hamlin expressed thethoughts of many when she said that the dance was a blast and the best homecoming dance ever.

Hotdogs and hamburgers were served the following day at the homecoming cookout. You won't believe how much K.P. students can chow down. Once the food was gone, the football game was on. Everyone cheered on the mighty King Philip Warriors, who faced Foxboro. Unfortunately, K.P. came up short that day and lost. Who can blame them, though? The heat that day was brutal. In the sun, it must have been around ninety degrees and just imagine trying to play football in weather like that.

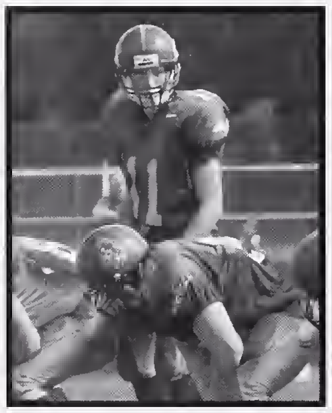
oh yes, because we are the best!

Each year King Philip students eagerly await Spirit Week in which all students and faculty sport their KP pride for an entire week in hopes that their class will come out on top by Friday and win the Spirit Week trophy.

This year was no different. It began with Pajama Day on Monday, which was an extremely popular day because it allowed students to roll out of bed and have no worries about their outfits for the day. Another best-seller this year was Class Color Day when the different classes are pitted against each other to see which class has the most spirit. The freshmen could be spotted wearing white, the sophomores blue, the juniors red, and the seniors, of course, wore green.



As many people expected, the unbeatable senior class of 2003 reigned victorious at the end of Spirit Week when they were announced the winners during the pep rally. It was clear then that seniors never fall!

School spirit can be seen at more times than just Spirit Week, however. Countless students are also athletes at KP and go out onto the field or court wearing their green and gold with pride and with the KP reputation on the line.

King Philip's winning tradition is also carried through to the music department where the various ensembles just keep on winning and have established themselves as one of the best in the country. They truly represent school spirit at its best.

Around the hallways at KP, green and gold is worn with pride and enthusiasm! Go KP!

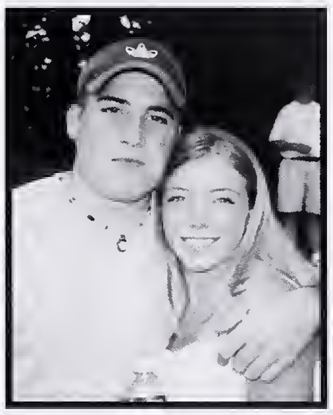
The Fall of 2002 came quicker than most students and faculty expected. Hot summer days ended and back-to-school shopping, fall sports, and the new academic year began. The great number of freshmen were welcomed with smiles in the hallways from upperclassmen and the King Philip staff.



One of the most anticipated events of the season was Homecoming Week. The pep rally, announcement of the court, and the game itself are always looked forward to. This year's court consisted of queen Nicole Puddester and king Minhaj Rahman who were accompanied by the court, consisting of Stephanie Knowles, Mike Stuart, Christina Powers, and Craig LaValley. Dana Shaw congratulated Christina at the game and posed for a picture with her. He was extremely proud that his friend had been voted onto the court.

Another anticipated event of the season was the girls' soccer team's return to the Division II State Championship game this year. Many KP students showed up for the game despite the fact that the game was at Worcester State College. The girls had a great second season and continued their spirit of excellence.

Although the hallways at KP are always crowded because of the massive student body this year, students seem to be able to find time to stop and pose for pictures. Mae Deevy and Brian O'Reardon, for example, are often seen at their lockers either talking or just procrastinating before going to class.

As usually happens, the fall season consisted of beautiful New England scenery, exciting sports, and new and challenging courses. What was different was the temperature which tended to be colder than normal.

Fall Frenzy

At 2:25 on Friday afternoon at King Philip, huge sighs of relief and joy can be heard throughout the building. While walking through the hallways, students can be seen excitedly making plans with their friends for the weekend ahead and teachers can be seen leaving the building with smiles on their faces!

In the King Philip community, which includes the three towns of Norfolk, Wrentham and Plainville, there is always plenty of entertainment available. On Friday night, sports events are a big hit. Whether it be the football games in the fall or the basketball games in the winter, most KP students come back to the high school to support the athletes and cheer the team on to victory.

Shopping is also a very popular weekend activity. Students can be seen at many of the local malls shopping for the latest styles or hanging out with their friends. The closest mall to the high school, the Wrentham Outlets, is also a very popular place for King Philip students to get their first jobs and earn some extra money.

When students have burned out on shopping or just can't find anything else to do, they often resort to going out to dinner. Places such as Applebee's are always filled with students dining in their booths on weekend evenings.

Possibly the most anticipated weekend activity is heading to the beach when the winter ends and the weather becomes warm again. The beach gives King Philip students a taste of summer and a glimpse at the school year's end.

No matter what time of year it is, weekends are the time when memories are made and the fun begins.

Fashion Forward

While walking through the hallway at King Philip, anyone can see the great variety of styles and fashions that students wear. Fashion allows the students from all three towns to express themselves and put their best feet forward.

Looking good can come in a variety of forms. Whether it be a sweatshirt from a sport you played, a guy friend's football jersey on the Friday before a big game, or your own personal collection of our school's colors, green and gold is always a hit. Holly Schrader and Samatha Shapiro showed their fashion sense by getting decked out in green and gold for the highly anticipated Spirit Week.

For another extremely important event, the school play, Molly Bloomer looked her best before the big performance. It is very important for all the drama students to look just right on the night of the play after months of hardwork and rehearsing.

It also takes hard work to prepare for a prom or formal at King Philip. Every year the popular style of dresses changes and the girls have to say on top of what will be in fashion. The guys, on the other hand, can count on wearing the timeless tuxedo to proms or a classy suit and tie to the semis. The guys truly receive the better end of that deal!

Some of the most enjoyable fashion experiences, however, occur when straying away from normal wardrobes. Many students miss the days when they could play dress up and have a good time with friends. Christina Powers, Mariah White and Marybeth Anderson decided that age was only a number and dressed up in cowboy hats, fishing boots and whatever jackets they could find. Clearly, they enjoyed themselves thoroughly!

From everyday clothing to prom dresses, students can all agree that it doesn't matter what you wear as long as it's a reflection of who you are.

All in the Family

Tim and Laura Czyzewski

When the stress of school, sports, and friends becomes too much to bear, you know you can always count on family. They are always there to provide support, love and understanding. Whether you are from a large family like the Howards, who have eight children, or a smaller one like the Leventhals, with only-child Josh, family plays an important role in everyone's life. At King Philip, quite a few students are lucky enough to have cousins, parents, or even siblings in the building whom they can go to when they are looking for support and need love from a family member.

Like most families, you can always rely on them for little memorable anecdotes. Jill Jackson can prove just that. She is lucky enough to have a cousin who is only a couple of days older to share her birthday. She remembers family parties being a ball with her cousin, Luke McGrath. When they were younger they shared these events. At one such party, Jill recalls Luke's glasses being smothered with cake. Talk about laughs!

Speaking of parties, when the Cronin family gets together, it must be a party in itself with so many family members. Just this year, they represent a good portion of the student body. On the girls' soccer team, there are cousins, Kate Cronin and Kelly Boulter. The sophomore class is not without this family's presence. Nevin, Jon, and Pat Cronin are all sophomores.

Jill Jackson,
Luke McGrath

With lots of siblings and cousins comes bickering, and with twins it's double the trouble. If you don't believe us just ask twins Eileen and Elizabeth Spinney or Bridget and Lauren Miller. Meredith Healey has a twin brother, Bryan, and says that being a twin is so much fun and twice the trouble. For those who think they are missing out on the fun of fighting with siblings, you are mistaken. Brett Prevost loves every moment of being an only child now that his sister is away at college.

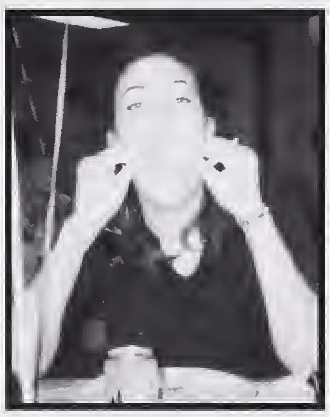
When the bell sounds ending third period, the halls are abuzz. Those lucky enough to have a license and daring enough to skip, plan their lunch runs to Burger King and the all-you-can- eat-buffet at Pizza Hut. Although they know they are wrong and could get caught, these kids put their stomachs first and follow 140 to the golden arches. There they feast on burgers and fries. If they purchase a value meal they can get free fries, unlike King Philip's cafeteria. At the beginning of this year, students could no longer get a side order of fries with their meals. The fries cost $1.00 and this price was way too high for students who needed to save their extra change for candy at the school store. Students threatened to boycott the fries, but nothing ever came of it.

John Robbins

at the senior barbeque.



For those students with a sweet tooth, the school store is the greatest part of lunch. There they sell anything from Skittles to Rolos. They even sell a teacher's nightmare...gum. Jill Malcolm thought that she was having a nightmare when she recently bought a pack of gum from the store. It appears that Winterfresh gum no longer has a silver wrapping like before. Being ignorant of this fact, Jill proceeded to purchase two more packs believing that every pack she bought was defective. This problem was quickly cleared up, but kept her friends roaring with laughter. The service at the store, by the way, is the best around. Samantha Shapiro, a first year student in D.E.C.A. claims that she has already learned so much while having fun with friends. Other students and faculty members get their sugar fix from Ms. Coutu's infamous candy bins.

When King Philip students are not chewing on gum from the school store, they can be seen carrying Dunkin Donuts cups of hot chocolate or coffee. At football and soccer games in the cold, it looks like a commercial for Dunkies with everyone holding a cup for warmth in the cold weather. And before school, especially at club meetings, it is guaranteed that someone has a Dunkin Donuts product. Some students even try to sneak their beverages into the school for homeroom. Thanks to the students at King Philip, Dunkin Donuts won't being going out of business anytime soon.

When King Philip students know the weekend is here, the parties begin! Whether it be birthday parties, pool parties, dance parties, surprise parties, or end-of-the-year parties, you can always find some form of fun in the KP area on weekends.

Seniors Tim Concannon and Jill Jackson always know how to party with their friends. At an-end-of-the-year party, just this summer, Tim and Jill went swimming, played games, and basically had a good time with their large group of friends. They are eagerly looking forward to this year's graduation party that will celebrate the end of their years at King Philip!

Minhaj Rahman was caught completely off guard this fall when a group of his close friends threw a surprise birthday party for him complete with everything from pinatas to presents. It was a 17th birthday he will never forget thanks to his loyal, supportive, and fun-loving friends!

The field hockey team can always get a party started. In the middle of a hot and long week at field hockey camp, the girls decided to throw a huge dance party in their dorm. They blasted the music and took their stress out by dancing the afternoon away.

Miranda Converse and Lisa Donovan went to a different kind of dance party when they attended the junior prom. They danced the night away with their friends and dates. It was certainly a memorable occasion.

The junior girls also know how to party. A large group of them got together to attend the Father-Daughter Dance. The girls thoroughly enjoyed themselves with their fathers and got another chance to be Daddy's little girl!

The party is never ending on weekends at King Philip!

It's Time to Celebrate

It's the most wonderful time of the year at King Philip when the holidays come around. Everyone feels the excitement when their favorite holiday approaches. On Halloween nothing is better than getting together with all your friends, dressing up (you're never too old!) and going trick-or-treating! Or how about waking up Thanksgiving morning, going to the football game, watching K.P. win, then going home and eating all your favorite Turkey Day food—from the gravy to the pies, to the long nap afterwards—a must on this holiday is always a cornucopia of fun! Next on the list comes Christmas, Chanukah, or Kwanzaa, most people's favorites! It is a time to spend with the people you love the most, and of course, we can't forget the presents! New Year's is one of the top favorites as well! There are so many different ways to spend New Year's Eve. Some people choose to go into Boston, others like to go to as many parties as they can, and some people enjoy just sitting at home with a few friends to watch the famous ball drop in Time's Square! Next comes Valentine's Day, the lover's holiday. How sweet it is to walk into school on February 14th and find a rose in your locker, or a box of chocolates from your sweetheart or a thoughtful friend! Although we girls prefer diamonds, chocolates and flowers are the most popular gift for this holiday! St. Patrick's Day comes soon after which is a sometimes forgotten holiday. However, those of us who are Irish wait year round for this holiday to come! On Easter, many of us love having small competitions with our brothers and sisters to see who can find the most eggs. The Fourth of July is a beautiful holiday. It seems the fireworks get bigger and fancier each year and crowds get larger and larger to watch them! Happy holidays K.P. and many more to come!

Winter Wonderland

Winter came very quickly to the King Philip area this year, and wouldn't leave! Before Thanksgiving Break, we already had a snow day under our belts. Students and faculty were seen scraping snow off their cars daily. They had to remain bundled up once they got into the school building because an aging heating system was often being repaired.

Along with snow, holidays are also associated with the winter months. Whether students celebrate Christmas or Hanukkah, the gift-giving season is usually filled with anticipation and cheer. In addition, the winter break gives everyone at King Philip a much needed rest before the dreaded week of mid-terms.

For entertainment during the cold days, students participate in an array of activities. Besides attending the winter sports events, students entertain themselves on the weekends by dressing up and staying indoors. Julie Pasquantonio, Michelle Cordo, Alison Cobb, Becky Bullock and Jen Malcolm all decided to dress up in warm clothes and hang around the house. They had a great time and didn't even have to brave the frigid weather.

Another group playing dress up was Christina Powers, Shana McElroy, and Mariah White who were bored one day and decided to dress up in things from around their house. They put on wigs and did eachother's make-up. Who knew that something so simple could be so much fun?

Of course, students also participate in the traditional sledding, skiing, and snowboarding excitement on various mountains in the area. The New England weather lends itself to great mountain conditions so the ski trip is a highly anticipated event for many students. Under the supervision of Mrs. Tower, students go to various ski resorts in the New England area for a weekend and talk about their great times for the rest of the year. For many, winter brings smiles and cheer to last until the end of the school year!

A Magical Night

Looking back on April 26, 2002 gives many King Philip students nothing but warm memories of dancing, friends, beautiful dresses and countless photographs. However, getting ready to attend the junior prom this year was not so magical for many people. After spending an hour at the hair salon transforming her hair into a masterpiece, Katie Johnson still found herself re-curling her updo. When her best friend Stephanie Knowles warmed up the curling iron to help her friend in need, she not only fixed her hair, but also burned her in the process! Meanwhile, Tim Blinten was arriving at his date, Vanessa Sotir's, house for a few pre-prom pictures. Pulling in proved much easier than backing out of Vanessa's driveway, however. Not only did it take Tim multiple tries, but he ended up taking down a few of Mrs. Sotir's prized flowers in the process. Also in need of a few new flowers was Shannon Steele, who forgot her corsage at home and was forced to stop at Roche Bros. en route with Jackie Olson and their dates. We were running through the store in our prom dresses! said Jackie with a laugh.

As if that was not enough, many students could not even find Glen Ellen Country Club in Millis! After driving around a few back roads of Millis, seeing the local sights—fields, cows, and more fields—everyone arrived safely and the party began. But the mishaps weren't over yet. Biz Cove spilled water on her beautiful dress. Then across the room, Megan Barry completely ripped off one of the straps of her gown. Thankfully, the water spot dried and Megan's strap was held together by a safety pin.

It wasn't all mishaps that night, however. Minhaj Rahman was surprised by his female classmates who dedicated a song to him and danced all around him.

While the DJ played the final song and the girls began putting on their shoes and their dates' tuxedo jackets to brave the chilly spring night, out in the parking lot, students were frantically finalizing their after-prom plans. One voice in the busy and crowed parking lot was Lisa Donovan, who summed up the emotions of all who attended. After the prom, I didn't take my dress off until at least 5 a.m. the next morning! I didn't want the night to end!

Picture after picture, song after song, the freshmen and sophomores made the most of their semi-formals and danced the nights away. The freshmen enjoyed themselves within the green and gold walls of King Philip for their frolic. The sophomores went further away, however, to Christina's in Foxboro for their semi. Both classes throughly enjoyed themselves.

Mariah white and Heather Richner both had a great time at the sophomore semi in Foxboro. They were dressed in white and red gowns respectively. Without a doubt, they agree that it was a night they will never forget, one that ranks high on their list of favorite high school activities.

Tim MacDonald and Abby Wessman truly enjoyed the sophomore semi. This adorable couple has been together for about two years and they look forward to many upcoming dances at K.P. After the dance, Tim and Abby went to Bickford's with some friends before getting some rest. This semi was so good that it will be a challenge for next year's dance to live up to student expectations.

Alison Cobb, Julie Pasquantonio, Melissa Lennon, and Andrea Pinciaro all got together to go to the freshman frolic. They decided to take the ties from their dates and put them around their necks for fun. The four girls are spotted around KP together a lot and enjoy each other's company.

Formals and regular dances are a staple of life at King Philip. They help to make the transition to adult life just one bit easier.

Life Is a Highway

Whether you are carted around by an upperclassman, take the bus, or drive your own set of wheels, it's important to arrive in style. Here at King Philip, the students have some of the hottest wheels around, hands down.

Mike Holt cruises around in a truck that is so yellow that you need a pair of sunglasses to look at it. The best part of all is that Mike will never have trouble finding his truck in a crowded parking lot. It radiates sunlight.

Red must be in style because everywhere you look some hot cars can be spotted. Just ask Rachel White, who keeps everyone asking for a ride in her cherry red Mustang. Talk about a first car! Skip Ericson's Honda Accord is just as hot. No wonder he gets all the ladies. Who wouldn't want to cruise around with that cutie in his racing red car?

Sometimes, it's not just the colors of the cars that are loud. Vivek Patel and Matt Clark can be heard a mile away with their music system playing rap. They are not alone in this category. It seems as though everyone plays his or her music extra loud. On Friday afternoons, it feels like being at a concert with everyone's music blasting.

With these sweet rides, it seems almost impossible to pick out the one car that is better then all the rest. Just look at all the awesome cars, some we have not even mentioned yet like Greg Mirliss' convertible, Nick McEvoy's Bronco, or Richard Bremilst's many automobiles. We'll let you in on a little secret if you promise not to tell. They are all great cars, but we're definitely partial to the Mr. Lemon truck that arrives at the end of a stifling hot day. That's our pick for the most popular set of wheels.

When you forget all the tests, studying, homework, papers, and Saturday detentions, school can be really fun and exciting. Throughout the school year at King Philip, there are numerous activities students can get involved with and have the time of their lives. Many student-sponsored events fall into this category. To keep tradition, student council always runs a fabulous pep rally that really gets the student body going. In addition to the pep rally, they plan Spirit Week, which is always a success and class competition. This year they have added new and exciting events for the students. In November, they threw a ping pong tournament. Seniors, Ross LaBrie and Barry Costello dressed to impress at this event. They arrived in their gym shorts, sweatbands, and socks pulled up and claimed that this ensemble was the outfit of champs. Also, during the fall, student council ran a Haunted Night, where children from the community could come and enjoy many Halloween activities.

Student council isn't the only group that holds fun activities. The science department is known to throw a party or two. Mole Day is one of Mrs. Lambert's favorite days of the year. When it's Promotion Day in physics, Mr. Pagnini goes all out in his army attire and awards badges that he makes for the students.

The social studies department always finds ways to have fun in class, too. History Day is a big event for all the underclassmen, who participate in it. Maura Foley and Amie Nickerson were in the same group this year and agree that the best part of the project is working with friends. Those lucky enough to go onto Bridgewater are to be commended for their hard work.

King Philip is full of fun activities. Who can forget all the semis, proms, and ski trips or the inductions into National Honor Society, French Honor society, and the Science Honor Society? The Friday night football games, bonfires, school plays, concerts, and powder puff games are not be forgotten in that list, too. We're sure you'll agree K.P. provides a good social climate for its students.

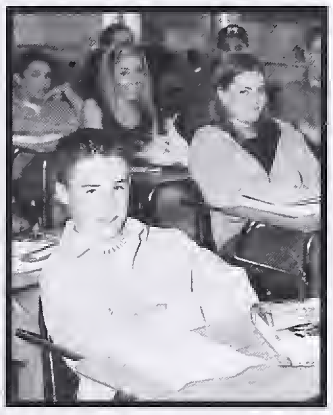
More Than a Building

At first glimpse, King Philip might strike someone as being out of The Brady Bunch with its green and brown tiled walls. Whether or not you love the appearance of the building, it truly means something more to the students in it. For those who see a building from the sfifties, other see an establishment filled with friends, mentors, and role models. Others see precious memories stored behind its doors. King Philip means many different things to different people, making it more than a learning institute. For many seniors it will be hard to leave it behind. For the past four years, they have supported the Warriors to many victories, struggled to pass every one of their classes, and made their mark with style and grace. Brandi Hamlin knows she will miss spending time with her friends at King Philip.

The seniors are not the only ones who realize the special opportunities that King Philip has to offer. Freshmen, sophomores, and juniors see this school as being something extraordinary. The support they receive from friends and teachers is evident in their many accomplishments and tributes to the school. When you walk around the underclassmen hallways, you can spot their school pride right away. Meghan Stark loves seeing K.P. students on green and gold day all dressed up showing school pride. They respect the school, and all its components. No wonder King Philip stands apart from all other schools.



In the end, King Philip might not be the most glamorous building around, but that doesn't matter. What matters the most is that the people in its confines respect and take pride in their school. Without such qualities King Philip would not be what it is today and for that we say thank you. Thank you for a fine education that will get us far in life. Thank you for the memories we all have made and shared. And finally thank you to those who support us daily — our teachers and friends. You are what truly makes King Philip special.

The Pride and the Passion Overcomes Nature

The Band Preview Day started out as a warm afternoon. Most of the people there were dressed as if it were summer. As the band warmed up onlookers saw that in the sky, above the side of the football field, loomed huge gray clouds.

Everything began smoothly; the music, Tchaikovsky's Symphony Number 5, was amazing. The color guard looked very colorful in their new uniforms and it was great to see the different colored flags that swirled around the field. Seeing the band march all around without colliding once was amazing.

Quietly, ever so lightly, it began to rain. An onlooker could barely feel the rain as he sat in the stands. Then, as the colorguard switched to a more difficult presentation, using two six-foot long flags on short poles, the rain started to come down harder.

Around the end of the second movement it really began to pour. The rain soaked everyone in the stands. Mr. Tileston decided to run through everything with only a quick break between each section to finish as soon as possible. Many people began to leave because they were soaked. The timpanist, Sharon Ward, had to push water off the tops of the drums many times during the downpour. When asked if it was difficult to play under those conditions a flutist, Samantha Sieloff, said that it wasn't because they had played in many different weather conditions. She did however say that it was difficult to march because the field gets muddy after it has rained for a while. Despite the dreary weather conditions the band and guard put on a wonderful show.

Jazz Band at Lincoln Center

ESSENTIALLY ELLINGTON

An Unbelievable Experience

To play at Lincoln Center is a great achievement for any jazz musician. The jazz band here at KP was selected to perform there in the Ellington Competition last spring. This group of extremely talented musicians went to New York and played pieces composed by the famous jazz artist, Duke Ellington.

After playing the show for the school the jazz band left to go to New York. They were all very excited to be going. While there the members of the band got to spend some time just hanging out in New York. The band played at Lincoln Center in front of a huge crowd of people. The Center was almost filled. The band got to play in front of professional jazz musicians who gave them tips and made comments about their music. Playing at Lincoln Center was unbelievable, said Mike Butler. Overall the trip was a lot of fun.

Mike also said that the most fun was going to the B.B. King Lounge. The school's jazz combo played in Times Square. The jazz combo is made up of only a few members of the jazz band, not the whole thing. Everyone ate dinner at the lounge. They had a professional jazz musician, who is in the Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra, eat dinner with them. The Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra is led by Winston Marcellus and it only plays the music of Duke Ellington. They also played music while the KP jazz band was in New York. The band members were able to hear some of the same music they had played performed by professionals. While they were having dinner with these musicians the members of the KP jazz band were able to talk with them, not just about jazz but many other things, too. These musicians had an amazing time, one they won't soon forget.

The Drama Experience

To be in the Drama Club and Grady Auditorium Production Staff, GAPS, is a lot of hard work but it is also a lot of fun. From rehearsal to set constructions to performances, there is always something to laugh about. In the play Much Ado About Nothing Ayaan Agane, a member of GAPS, was cleaning up a broken bottle on stage while changing scenes in a blackout. As the lights came on she found herself still on stage with all the broken glass! Quickly she hid behind some scenery. No one in the audience could see her but all of the actors on stage tried as hard as they could to keep from laughing and breaking character. Ayaan had to stay hidden behind the set until the next scene. Now, instead of saying break a leg, the tech crew tells one another to break a bottle.

On closing night of Much Ado About Nothing, Jen Lechak and Chris Watkins were on stage together. Jen was supposed to be handcuffed by policeman Chris, but she managed to break through and slap him across the face. He was not expecting this at all. She slapped me hard. It really hurt, Chris said of this surprise. Unexpected things do sometimes happen while on stage, but the actors must go with it and cover for themselves or others. In the Christmas play A Christmas Carol, Matt Murphy, who played Scrooge, was supposed to take out his change purse and pay for a goose that he was sending to the Cratchit family, but he couldn't find it. After looking for his purse he told the poultry man that he would have to give him an IOU and asked the little boy whom he had sent to get the goose to come back tomorrow and he would be compensated with whatever he desired. He covered quickly without missing a beat, something that is not always easy to do.

Get Those Creative Ideas Flowing!

How do you transfer ideas from your head onto paper? The members of Sachem, Yearbook, and the Metacomet have all answered this question. At Sachem meetings, members often work in groups while formulating their ideas, and separate when it is time to put them on paper. Some prefer to work with classical music, while others prefer a quiet, serene atmosphere. Matt Murphy, a member of Sachem states, It does not matter how you brainstorm as long as it works for you. Everyone has a different method of creating; you just need to figure out what it is!

The yearbook staff has a wide variety of brainstorming tactics. By simply putting a camera into your hand, the creative ideas become unlimited. Lauren Briere works diligently at creating the sketches for this year's cover, with high hopes that this will be a book that everyone remembers. On the other hand, Lindsay Wyman knows that the instantaneous act of taking a picture is an important part of the job, for she recognizes that, you must be ready to capture an image at any second. You never know when the moment will pass.

A perfect example of how the moment for a photo opportunity can pass occurred on one breezy fall afternoon in September. Stephanie Knowles and Katie Johnson were in the court yard taking a picture of Brandi Hamlin, Brian Oles, and David Beaver climbing in a tree. Thinking it would be a great idea to hang upside down, Dave decided to test his flying skills. Before they knew it, Dave was crashing down from the tree, landing gracefully on his head! The camera made it possible for everyone to share this moment.

King Philip is lucky to have so many talented students who are still interested in the printed word. This is a great way for those who are interested in page layout, or journaliam, or writing to be able to try out their skills.

The Never-Ending Day

Have you ever seen those National Honor Society members storming through the hallways before homeroom with the televisions, VCR's, and overhead projectors? Have you ever heard them piling paper into the recycling bins every Tuesday after school? Most importantly, have you ever thought of what would happen if these students had never volunteered their time? Without their help recylcing would pile up, teachers wouldn't have overhead projectors to give notes and worst of all, students wouldn't have movies to watch in class!! Ok, well maybe the damage wouldn't be as catastrophic as just described, but it is indisputable that by helping out in this way, they alleviate the stress of the maintenance and library staffs.

Towards the end of the school year, old books, covers, and worksheets are just some of the things that get stuffed into teachers' recycling bins. The last week of school this past year, NHS President Jackie Olson and Vice President Shannon Steele had the overwhelming task of collecting 2002's leftovers. The girls could barely carry the boxes, and pushing the bin was next to impossible. They had to ask a friend, Will Hoostein, to aid them in their back breaking task. Two hours later, their biggest problem was Will's sister Melissa who thought they had gone out to lunch without her.

Kids! Kids! Kids!

Working with children can be one of the most rewarding experiences that a volunteer can have. It can also be one of the most mind boggling! Many of the students here at King Philip have learned to appreciate their teachers more than ever after having spent as little as a few hours with a classroom full of children.

When children have been in school all day and then stay after for religious education class, they are not easy to handle. The following advice from King Philip students may help you in the future! Ryan Porter's key to success is candy. Candy, candy, candy, candy, Ryan says, is the way he controls his class. They'll learn anything for you if you feed them.

Amy Goodwin's key to success is her personality. She knows that, you have to be yourself with the kids or they'll walk all over you. Little kids love it if you joke around and it's a great way to keep their attention while teaching them something important.

Students who went through Plainville Elementary probably remember Mrs. Deeny's threats to throw kids in the trash if they didn't behave. At Norfolk Elementary, students may remember Mrs. Moody's attempts at keeping peace and quiet in the library. She would reward each child who could be quiet with one Skittle and those who were nice with two.... It appears that she and Ryan Porter think along the same lines. At Wrentham Elementary, Lizzie Andreozzi and Mrs. Mannering both remember the same thing: Miss Plotczyk's Ralph Good-Mouse. Mrs. Mannering remembers her son's being so excited to get to bring Ralph home, and I knew that had meant they were well behaved that week in school.

No matter how much mischief children can get into, just seeing the smiles on their faces when they receive Christmas gifts at the holiday party or their unyielding attempts at remembering a prayer that they tried so hard to learn make it all worthwhile.

What is Your Definition of a Leader?

Who is a leader and how do you know that he or she is a leader? These are two questions that almost every person answers differently. When asked those questions, KP students came up with a variety of answers. A leader is...

Someone who is calm and takes control in an otherwise urgent or chaotic situation. Also someone who inspires hope, when others believe that there is none, said Dan Lovley.

Someone who can talk to people openly, is a very powerful speaker and helps other people find the right way, responded Kristen Quartarone.

A person who directs us in our daily tasks. No matter what these tasks are, a leader will prevail in demonstrating the most successful choice of action, Chris Watkins said.

When asked this same question, Meredith Gaynor, one of the many leaders at King Philip, responded by saying, people who take control of difficult situations. They are inspiring individuals who instill strength and hope in all those who surround them. They are able to influence people simply with their overwhelming presence as unique and powerful individuals in our society.

Of course there is always room for interpretation and Sarah Seely definitely interpreted the meaning of our question very differently from everyone else. A liter is like Sprite or Dr. Pepper...Well they come in 2 liters, she told us.

Leading With Determination

King Philip has many students who are true leaders. Regardless of the club, sport, or activity they represent, they positively impact the entire student body of the school. Every KP leader possesses his or her own unique characteristics that contribute to the atmosphere.

Shawn McDermott and Joe Moses are on the board of Peer Leadership. They organize events such as speaking to children about the dangers of becoming involved with drugs, alcohol, and cigarettes and often use the DARE program to help get their message across. Over the summer some of these leaders, such as Erin Ouimet, Kathy Cochrane, Samantha Shapiro and Meredith Gaynor worked as camp counselors at DARE camp for fifth and sixth grade students. They also tutor children who attend the local elementary schools. Their leadership qualities not only contribute to the atmosphere of KP, but to the community that surrounds us.

Katie Sevy, also a member of the Peer Leadership board, does an awesome job of getting the senior class involved in Spirit Week. Every day of Spirit Week she tries to find something for each member of the class to wear in order to insure that the class possesses the most spirit at King Philip.

Yak-Yak-Yak-Yak

In recent years the student involvement in clubs and activities has risen steadily. A new problem has surfaced in many of our organizations: TOO MANY PEOPLE ARE TALKING. The Leo club is proud to have one of the largest chapters in New England consisting of more than 80 members. At the same time, the overwhelming involvement of students often results in meetings which are chaotic. To solve this problem a new board member position was created. This position is called the Lion Tamer. Senior Doug Huber was appointed Lion Tamer at the beginning of the 2002 year, and since then the meetings have been running with great efficiency.

In clubs where voicing an opinion is an important part of active participation such as the Diversity club, creative new ideas have been developed on how to organize group discussions. The Diversity ball, a small rubber sphere with the picture of Superman on it, was the perfect solution to the problem. At the meetings, members are allowed to voice their concerns and opinions only when in possession of the ball. Brittany Burke, a longtime member of the club, only had positive comments about this new way of communicating. Describing last year as being slightly unorganized, she loves this new idea, especially, for the fun which comes from watching everyone's unique sense of hand-eye coordination!

All Business, All the Time? Yeah Right!

The members of DECA work hard all year long on their projects. When they get to go to the National Convention their hard work pays off! Recognition is given to those projects that outshine the others. This is where students are given the opportunity to show the nation what they can do.

At the 2002 DECA national convention King Philip students did extremely well. It was held in Salt Lake City, Utah, where students were able to visit the Olympic Village. Even though the convention was held during the spring, there was still a foot of snow in the mountainous region where the village is set.

Not only do they work extremely hard presenting their projects, but they also have fun. Many members of the DECA class talk about the fun time they had taking part in a snowball fight in the streets of Salt Lake City. Mike Stuart remembers, It was a great time. We got along with all the other DECA groups so well it made the experience even better.

One thing you don't want to do is miss your presentation. Two members almost did. Jeff Wood and Mike Stuart opened their eyes one morning just in time to realize that they were due at the Convention Center to present their project in five minutes! They jumped out of bed, ran through the streets of Salt Lake City and arrived at the Convention Center just in time.

What is Achievement?

To achieve is to accomplish a goal which requires an extreme amount of hard work and effort. Whether it is taking your softball team to the National Championship in North Carolina or raising enough money to take your Girl Scout troop to Europe, you are surpassing the average teen. Academic accomplishments such as scoring well on an extremely competitive math test or earning six terms of A's also provide a fulfilling experience for the exceptional student.

This past summer Rose Becker and Judy Doane went far above the call of duty. When given the chance to visit Honduras to help build houses for the less fortunate, they jumped at the opportunity. Both girls felt that this accomplishment was certainly a milestone in their lives.

Visiting the Pope in Toronto proved itself to be an enriching experience for Julie Nolan, Carolyn Sweeney, Kelly Winslow, Courtney Woods, and Lindsay Wyman. This group worked many long hours to raise enough money to participate in this once-in-a-lifetime experience. Over eight hundred thousand people from many countries around the world took the six mile hike through the woods to a field at Downsview where they would finally meet the Pope. When the day of departure arrived, Courtney Woods remembers feeling excited to meet people from all around the world, for she knew that she would have this memory for the rest of her life. These outstanding individuals along with many others make up King Philip's finest.

Shooting for the Moon

Earning an Eagle Scout or Gold Award is an accomplishment that lasts for a lifetime. It stands for many hours of service and devotion to the scout's community. This kind of dedication usually continues into a life of giving.

Junior Eric Siegmann, along with many other students at King Philip, is committed to serving his town and local community. For his Eagle Scout project, Eric established an entrance to the Lind Farm Conservation Land in Norfolk. Over a period of time spanning from March to October, he transplanted over fifty trees and shrubs to the site. He finished off the exceptional landscaping by growing grass and putting wood chips on a path. When the project was completed, Eric had worked a total of 350 hours, but more importantly, he had provided the town with a peaceful haven for nature.

Seniors Abby Dalton and Janine Molino used their creative skills to make a book of camp songs which they had learned as children in Girl Scouts. With the help of Laura Czyzewski and Pardees Safizadeh, the girls were able to lead the younger Girl Scouts, in their efforts to give back to their community. Abby Dalton remembers this project as being lots of fun. The little kids were so excited to have us come and teach them these songs. It's a great way for them to have a role model in their lives, she added.

Many of the students at K.P. have worked hard to achieve their goals. They have all reached for the stars.

The size of our team definitely contributes to the unity and success of the team. With only ten girls on the team, we have all become really close and have succeeded together.

It was definitely one of our best seasons for team spirit. There was so much support, it was a great atmosphere to be in!

Michael Ryan O'Connell

Congratulations!

Mike, we are very proud of you...

You can attain anything you want. You have already proved you are a survivor. Mike, look at what you have already accomplished in spite of all the challenges thrown into your life over the past year. Remember, as you continue through life, be assured other obstacles will cross your path. But also remember, your fabulous smile, loving personality, and your natural intelligence will get you past any obstacles thrown your way.

Mike, shoot for the moon; even if you fall short, you still will be among the stars.

We love you and will always be here for you.

Dear Lizzie,
You have been blessed with many talents and capabilities—a combination of all the best qualities of your family. You have been a co-captain, a president, a leader, (even a queen!); but more importantly a devoted daughter, sister, and friend. Always remember the home you've come from and the family who loves you, and you'll know the true meaning of success.

All our love and best wishes,

There should be more guys out there like you. Guys who will buy bright green polyester pants at a thrift store especially for Green and Gold Day. Guys who have goofy hobbies like collecting the bottles and cans of assorted energy drinks. Guys who have a cowboy hat. Guys who look out for their friends and big sister. And guys who always work hard and do their best. You are the best brother I could ever ask for and I'm as happy to have you around now as the first time I met you—probably more. You've taught me so much and given me some great memories. Don't ever change who you are, just grow...Good luck in the years to come— I'll always be here for you.

May the good Lord be with you
Down every road you roam
And may sunshine and happiness surround you when you're far from home

And may you grow to be proud
Dignified and true
And do unto others
As you'd have done to you

Be courageous and be brave
And in our hearts you'll always stay
Forever Young

May good fortune be with you
May your guiding light be strong
Build a stairway to heaven with a prince or a vagabond

And may you never love in vain
and in our heart you will remain
Forever Young

And when you finally fly away
We'll be hoping we served you well
For all the wisdom of a lifetime
No one can ever tell

But whatever road you choose
We're right behind you, win or lose

And in our heart you will remain
Forever Young

Lots of love
from the bottom of our hearts!

The following poem was written for Jeannel by her dad when she was a baby.

STRAIGHT FROM THE HEART

Every little smile comes straight from your heart
It permeates all that surround you with love
A heart so young yet so wise in part
Revealing to your father that my girl came from above

Every single laugh comes straight from your heart
Contagious to all no matter of the time of day
Your love is conquering, never ending, always at the start
With open arms to all those who come your way

Every twinkle in your eye comes straight from your heart
As to tell all the simplest things in life will bring happiness
Especially to a father that adores a little girl who stands apart
From all life's tribulations with love's simpleness

We are so proud of you.
We love you.

Elizabeth Cove

Our little "Bizzy"
So beautifully grown up now,
And so many wonderful years in-between.
We are so proud of you
and we love you.
Dad Mom Katie & Allie

Kendra Joy Willette

I can't remember if they're blue or they're green,
but yours are the sweetest eyes I've ever seen.
Love,
Mom, Dad, Jaime, Charles, and Mitchell

♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥

I love you a bushel and a peck, a bushel and a peck, and a hug around the neck.
Love you,
Nana and Grand Dad

Kristina Cochrane

Krissy,
We are so proud of all that you have done and we know you will continue to make us proud.

We love you, Kristina. Remember we're always here for you. You'll always be our little girl.

Love,
Mom, Dad,
Tom, Mike,
and Joey

Seth Weaver

Beam me up, Scotty

Choose your own path and cast your own shadows.
We love you,
Mac, Mom & Micah

Craig LaValley

Craigmeyer,
Congratulations!
I knew you could do it!
I know you will be successful at whatever you choose to do, but also know that I'll be there for you because you'll always be my little brother.
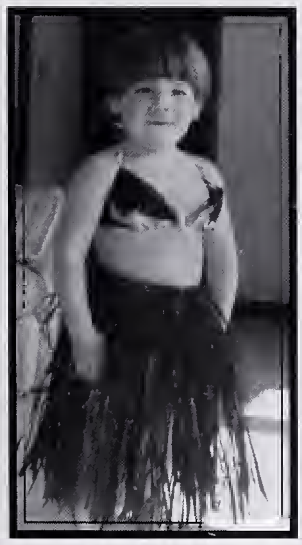
Love, Keith



Dana Shaw

Dana,
You've always been one to take the untravelled path. You are an amazing person with a heart of gold with the ambition and drive to become everything you want in this world. Go forward with your dreams and always know I will be there for you!

I love you.
Congrats!
Laurie

Katherine Elaine Sevy

Katie,
Congratulations! We're so very proud of you!
Best of luck in the coming years.
Love,
Mom, Dad, Rebecca and Patrick

A New Direction

Seven years ago the first yearbook produced by a yearbook class at King Philip was published with the theme, "Turning Over a New Leaf." If ever there was a lie in print, that was it. Although the means of producing the book had changed tremendously and the adviser was new, the format was the same as it had always been. As the years went by, we tried some new technology, but, again, the format remained untouched—until this year. Now don't think we went crazy because we didn't. We only started the movement toward a theme-based yearbook. What do we mean by that? Well for one thing, you won't see double page spreads devoted to every club in the school or every event that occurred during the year. We tried to combine these into categories. Thus, our On Broadway pages combine the drama club, G.A.P.S., and chorus. Our Fun Activities pages showed History Day, field trips, and Spirit Week. By combining areas, we didn't have the problem of tiny clubs that got the same two pages as the band and it gave us the added opportunity to present new topics, like Transportation and Our School. Another feature of a theme-based yearbook is stories that are tiny in scope, but fascinating to read. We didn't feel compelled to write about the season that each sports team had enjoyed (or suffered through.) Never again will we have to say that this was a rebuilding year. So what did we write about? Dive-bombing ducks and Brett's stinky underwear! Make no mistake about it. This was a big move for us, and not a 100% success. But we promise to move forward again in the 2004 yearbook until we perfect this level of yearbook and set our sights on a higher level of sophistication.

At this point, it's time to name the people who make this book possible. First and always, a special thank you from me to the Modern Publishing class. They went through a summer of agony, not knowing if there would even be a class this year. When the word came through, they changed their schedules so that yearbook could appear. And how hard did they work? Well, breakfast at 7 A.M. and snacks at 3:30, 4:00, 5:00, and even later in room 217. No one could ever know how many hours this book took, how many software and hardware failures we suffered through, how many phone calls to North Carolina, and how many trips to the post office to overnight a package. We had good times and tense times; we loved this book and we hated it. But for the most part, a quick walk around the building when tempers flared, and the class was back with sleeves rolled up to try it again. What's the greatest lesson anyone can learn from this class? To work hard, to try your best, and to understand that sometimes that's not enough. And so you work even harder. That's what this year's class was like.

And so after thanking the class, who else deserves mention? Certainly Mike Levine, our principal, who saved our class last year, helped to get us two new computers, and even intervened to get us supplies when the budget was frozen. Also, we have to mention Mrs. Hansen and Mr. Rice who cleared the way for us in so many small ways. It's the everyday problems that can stop our work cold and they do a great job taking care of these. Jill Proulx, the assistant adviser, handles all the money for the yearbook. That's not an easy task, but she makes it seem simple The secretaries, especially, Pauline Lessard, are wonderful to the girls in the class. We get names, student and teacher schedules, photo schedules—it all comes from their computers. The custodial staff has to clean a very upset and crowded room each night and they deliver with a smile all the packages addressed to the Chieftain. The media staff is so kind to all of us, and this year that was hard for them after we painted their beautiful white walls green and yellow (too long to explain here). Needless to say, rollers and white paint were the order of the day in January As always, the staff is to be commended for allowing my girls to walk into their classes and remove students for just a second for a photo. The senior class came through again and got those pictures taken, wrote up their profiles, sent in their mementoes of DECA trips and summer beach escapades, and were very pleasant to work with. So, too, the underclassmen were cooperative when we needed photos or quotes. And, of course, our students' parents were wonderful to work with as they sent in delightful photos of the seniors as babies or they called to check that their son had purchased a yearbook or their daughter had gotten the information about senior photos correct.

Now the people you don't know. We have the best sales rep. in the country. Arnie Lohman is there when we need something, but doesn't bug us to take part in programs that don't suit us Sandy Moses, whom we have never met face to face, is our customer rep. in North Carolina. She can solve any problem and have you laughing over what you thought was a terminal problem. Rick Brooks is an award winning artist who flies in from Pennsylvania to help us design our cover. His visit is the highlight of the year. He is a wonderful and talented man, who has more patience with 16 girls than anyone I have ever seen. All of these people work for Jostens, our publishing company. There are so many others that I could list (I feel sometimes that I've talked to every member of that company) as being supportive and friendly. They're all great. And last, but not least by any means, is Chestnut Hill Studios in Seekonk. They do both our senior portraits and our undergrad photos. They also do our staff portraits and our sports and events photos. In fact, if you see a bad photo, I can assure you one of the Chieftain staff members or I took it. Gary, Joe and Louis—you are the best.

And now for the technical information. This yearbook was produced using very old school Macintoshes, one middle aged Mac laptop, and two brand new Macs—an EMac and an IMac. We used PageMaker 6.5 and PhotoShop 5-7 (depending on the capacity of the computer. Most of the type is done in Palatino, but our headlines are in AYTDancing Comfort.

We hope you are pleased with the direction our yearbook has taken this year. We worked hard to be perfect, fell a little short of the mark, but know we did the best job that we could do.

Defending the Title

Tom McGuire

The baseball team had a lot to defend this year. After an unforgettable season in 2002, the boys had to defend their Eastern Mass title. Junior shortshop Mike Lyon as well as senior pitcher Ben Gaetani were named captains for this year's team. This year the boys went through one of the hardest preseasons they've ever experienced. They held captains' practices throughout February, and in March they began an intense schedule of training. Throughout the end of March and early April, as the season was delayed due to wet weather, the boys practiced afternoons and nights. They were determined to make up for the players on the 2002 team that they had lost to graduation. The boys trained vigorously from 3 to 5 in the afternoon and then again at night in the gym. Sophomore Andrew Holmes recalls that, I barely had time to relax. After school we would do fielding outside on the field. Despite the cold weather we were out there almost everyday. We came back at night to do hitting in the gym. We worked hard and had a few laughs too, which made practice all the better.

The varsity softball team kicked off the month of April with a prank on Coach Turco. Senior Christina Powers got really serious with her April Fool's prank. She borrowed a sling from an injured teammate. The team, as well as JV Coach Jones, crowded around Powers to console her on her injury. She told Turco the news but he didn't believe her. While the girls were practicing their swings on the baby bats, they gathered together and on the count of three the team yelled April Fools! Turco dropped to the ground laughing. For this team, a prank was a great way to kick off the long month of April. However, the season was more than just fun and games as their determination paid off and they were crowned Hock champs.

Songs of Lacrosse

As the third season of girls' lacrosse begins, you see some new faces. Ms. Walker is the new head coach and Mrs. Hardy is the new JV coach. Both were part of the KP lacrosse program last year, but have taken on new roles this season. The girls were also adjusting to the new coaching staff. The girls usually spend the entire practice laughing and getting to know one another. On the bus the girls pass the time by singing and making up random dances. Caitlin Cuozzo and Brittney O'Hara sing the dreidel song and dance with their sticks. Even at one of the team's first jamborees, Meredith Healey sang to the sun. It was cloudy and cold out so Meredith decided to sing to it. Mr. Sun, sun, Mr. Golden Sun, please shine down on me. Every time I sang the song the sun would come out to warm everyone up!

As the season continued Coach Walker was looking for her team to work harder and be more serious. She knew that the girls were in a weak league and did not want them to lose focus for the tougher games. At the end of the season the girls had to face teams such as Dartmouth, Westwood and Hopkinton. All three teams had been on the varsity level for much longer than KP. The KP team ended their previous season second in the Hock and made it to the first round of the tournament. Here, they sadly lost in overtime. Hopefully this season the girls' hard work will pay off and they will win the Hock and go further in the tournament.

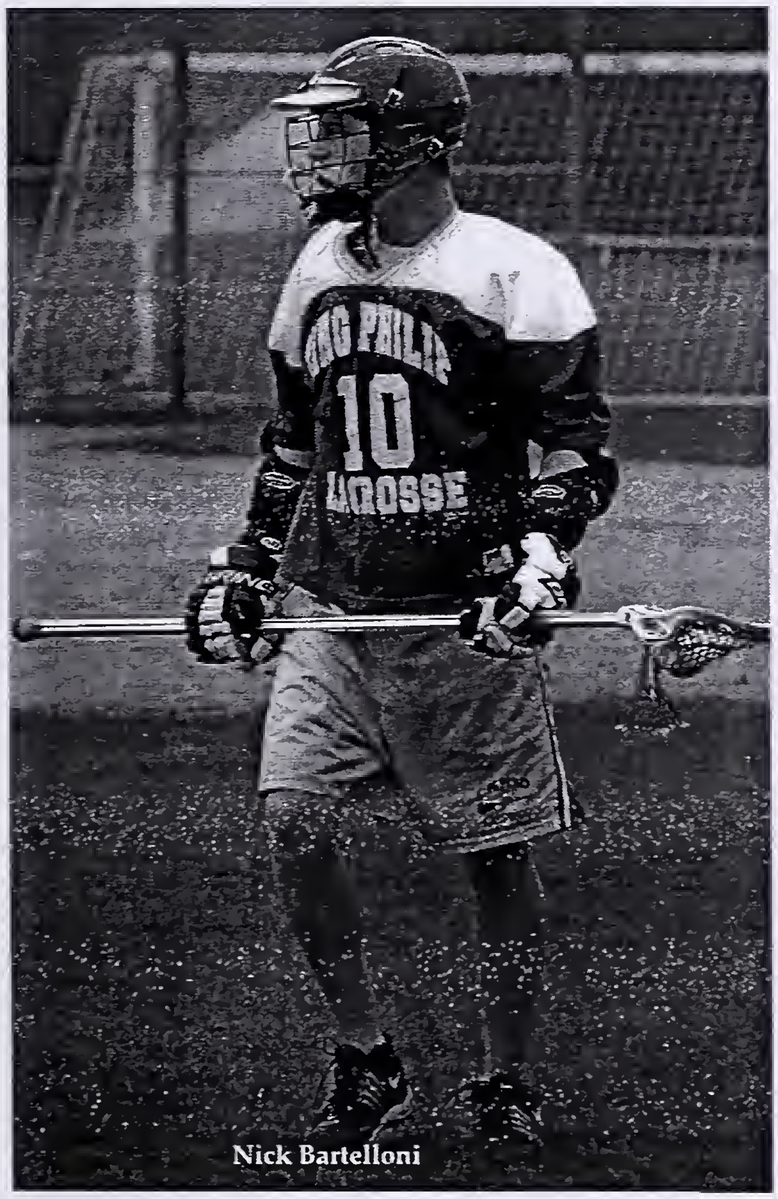
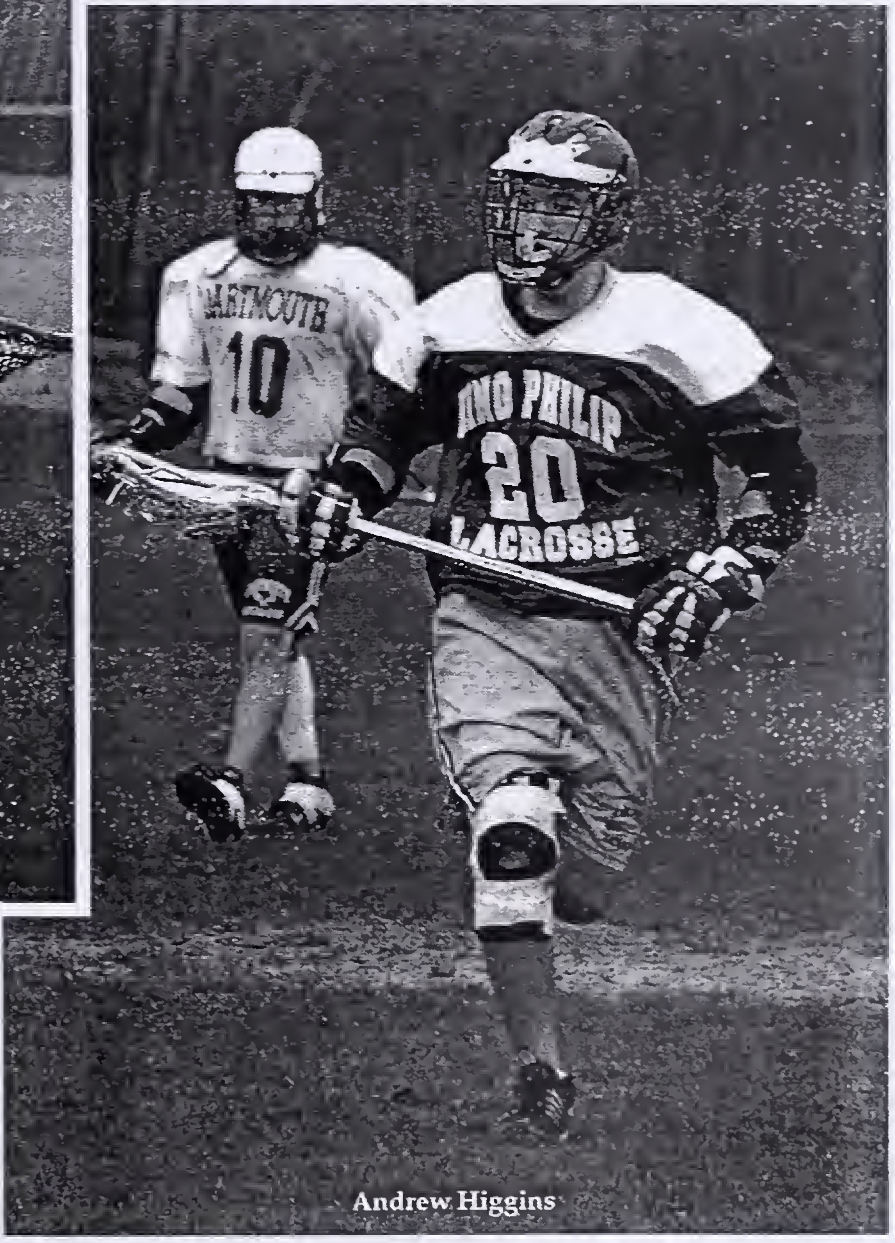
No matter what the weather, you will always see our boys' lacrosse team outside practicing. Spring in New England, as you know, is crazy. One day it could be hot and humid, while the next day we could have a snow storm. With bad weather, KP's spring sports teams head indoors for practice—but not our lacrosse boys. If they can pass, catch and shoot well in a blizzard, they will be amazing in good weather. This coaching tactic has obviously worked well for Coach Schears and his boys. The season started off with two wins, Algonquin 16-15 and Walpole 12-2.



Nick Bartelloni



Andrew Higgins

Sophomore Andrew Higgins and juniors Ben Henderson, Reid Eichelberger, Dana Lasher, and Nick McEvoy are great with scoring. Juniors Anthony DeLaiarro, Nick Bartelloni, Kyle Shea along with a great goalie Evan Harwood make the defense very strong. The boys' lacrosse team has an extreme amount of skill and passion for the fastest game on two feet.

When the Clouds Finally Parted

Despite having one of the rainiest seasons in the history of many of these girls' high school careers, the tennis team continues to smile. They have even met some of their opponents four times due to cancellations and make-ups in which only half a match was played! Normally, they only play a team twice in one season, but not this year!

While they were waiting out in the rain inside the upper foyer of Hopkinton's beautiful high school, the girls kept themselves busy admiring this recently built high school. Eventually the match had to be rescheduled for the following Sunday afternoon because the rain had completely drenched the courts. Sunday turned out to be a gorgeous afternoon in the mid-70s with the sun shining brightly. Since they could not take a bus on a Sunday, the girls piled into two BMW convertibles and set off for Hopkinton. All heads turned as they were pulling up to the Hopkinton courts. One father joked, we didn't know that BMW sponsored your team! KP did not win that match, but at least they arrived in style!

The boys' tennis team had a season very similar to that of the girls... rain, rain, and more rain. Luckily, they got in a few more matches than the girls did. Overcoming many obstacles, the team finished up the season with a decent record. Even though they were no longer allowed to have a cookout at every match, they made the best of it. This year the boys' and girls' teams had a mixed doubles match followed by a cookout. Mrs. Puddster thought, It would be a great way to end the season and have a lot of fun at the same time. The girls had been talking about whom they were going to pick for a partner for many weeks, while the boys had no clue that they were even playing together. Typical! Even still, the match was a great way to end two exciting and memorable tennis seasons!

Good Old New England Weather

When the weather gets nice, everywhere you look you can see people out and about running or walking the streets in the tri-town area. There is a good chance that the runners you see are King Philip track stars sprinting an Archer or keeping the pace on a Creek run. This year, the track team did not have good luck with the spring weather. Good old New England played tricks on the team and held back the start of the team's season. Many of the runners and throwers felt as if they were participating in winter track. The snow, cold weather, and downpours resulted in the cancellations of their first two meets. Mother Nature was not cooperating and the coaches were getting frustrated with each cold spell. To make up for the depressing weather, the team decided to have their own meet. The team was divided into two teams, upperclassmen vs. underclassmen. The underclassmen wore green and the upperclassmen wore gold. Even on the day of the Green and Gold Meet, the weather was freezing and the team still had to bundle up. However, it was a good chance for the new members of the team to experience what a meet was really like. The meets can become very chaotic because there is more than one event taking place at the same time. Thus, the "new faces" experienced their first-ever meet on their home turf. The day was filled with fun and excitement, and the upperclassmen displayed their leadership when they came out on top.

Six feet of muscle, Megan Barry is not only a star on the basketball court, but for this spring season, she has made her mark on the spring track team. This season was her first time on the team, but she definitely made a lasting impression. Everyone on the team gave her so much credit for starting a new sport in her senior year. After a week of practice Megan joined the track crew and immediately fit in. If you know Megan, you know that she is extremely friendly, lots of fun to be with, and a fabulous leader. Everyone appeared to be having fun with this basketball star and found it hard to believe that she was a newcomer to the team. The team made her feel so welcome right off the bat and she appreciated everyone's support.

Dads, Daughters and Dancing

Michaela Kurff Jen Lechak

This year after a long week of midterms, many girls from King Philip decided to take their dads out for a night on the town at Lake Pearl Luciano's for the anticipated Father-Daughter Dance. Before sitting down to dinner, dads mingled on the dance floor while the girls took some snapshots with their friends, tried to figure out which table to sit at, and admired eachothers' dresses. After a delicious chicken parmesan dinner, the DJ got the crowd enthused the crowd and began a twist competition that pitted all of the father-daughter couples against each other. The couple that remained standing after the rigorous event consisted of Hayley Hayes and her father. Dads were encouraged to put their pride aside and do their best to win the dance off. This year's DJ ensured that the fathers would be more involved than ever, rarely allowing them to return to their seats. In true formal dance spirit, pictures with dates and groups were offered.

For senior girls, this was the last opportunity to dress up and dance with their dads so these formal pictures were a must. Also popular were the professional group pictures that were taken of each class. Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors each came together by grade to take a picture as a group to take a picture as a group and witnessed who was best represented at the dance. When the last song, "The Way You Look Tonight" by Frank Sinatra, played all the girls and their fathers came together on the dance floor to savor one more moment to be daddy's little girl. It was truly a memorable night.

Lights, Camera, Action!

The excitement of the Freshman Formal took center stage as the boys and girls walked down the lighted red carpet to enter the Hollywood drama. Class officers and student volunteers had decorated the KP cafeteria with cardboard movie characters, the steam-stacks from the Titanic, blinking lights, shiny streamers, and cameras. Some students came as couples while many had a night out with their best buds! They danced to Mr. Hall's great DJ hits and ate chicken fingers and pasta served by King Philips' own cafeteria staff!

After dancing and taking pictures, superlatives were given out to those with outstanding talents and style! Best Couple was given to Tara Cuddihy and Bryan Weigel, who have been going strong for over a year. Most spirited was awarded to Molly Hall and Scott Smith for their wonderful enthusiasm! Colleen Beals and Sam Lasher ran off with Best Dancer for their flexibility and awe-inspiring moves on the floor! Best Dressed went to Todd Deschamps and Michaela Burke, who were styling on the red carpet! Finally, Most Likely to be a Star was given to Kate Croker and Rob Lawless, who are celebrities in the making! As the night came to an end, Kelly Pasquantonio reminisced that the first formal dance was definitely all I expected it to be and more...I cannot wait to see what next year will be like!

Twinkle, Twinkle

Ohhh what a night the sophomores had at their semi-formal! Several students described it as the best dance they had ever been to. Filled with good-looking kids, decorations galore, blaring music, and more food than anyone could imagine, the night was most definitely a success! The theme Under the Stars was quite appropriate since their main decoration was a blue canvas covered with white Christmas lights to look like a starry night. It hung over the sophomores and their dates as they danced the night away. The King Philip gymnasium was completely transformed from its usual athletic appearance. Students were relieved to find this setting a romantic and exciting one! Andrew Holmes described his funniest moment of the night as watching Andrew Higgins' dance. Kristin Keinz, treasurer of the sophomore class, described the gym as breathtaking, a completely new atmosphere. She added that the dance was a huge success and we couldn't have done it without Miss Frey and Mr. Webb. Jenn Cannon ripped up the dance floor, flaunting her turquoise dress, (we can just forget the part when she tripped on her own dress!)

The DJ sure knew how to get the girls going out on the floor by playing the ever-so-famous "Cotton-Eyed-Joe," and "The Electric Slide." They definitely appreciated the fact that the DJ let the girls dance on the speaker platforms as well! Steve Gallagher held a very memorable after party. There were couples everywhere! On a final note, this year's semi was most memorable because the sophomores stuck together, mostly taking dates from their own grade, talking and reminiscing about past memories and great times spent together over the years.

Dancing The Night Away

The Junior Prom was held at Luciano's Lake Pearl Ballroom in Wrentham. The setting was magnificent, the food was delicious, and the students looked exquisite! Couples and solos pulled up in stretch limos. Mr. Skenyon and Ms. Proulx greeted them at the door with warm smiles. Most couples decided to take pictures first so that they could spend the rest of their time dancing! After pictures and greetings, food was served. The chicken parmesan and pasta primavera were delicious! The dinner started off what would be a spectacular social event!

As the night flew by, curls came unraveled and suit coats came off. The dancing had just begun, and it would continue for hours. Then the time they had all been waiting for arrived; the court was announced! Ashley Daubenmire, Emily Bhatti, and Abby Wessman, all accompanied by their dates, were chosen to be in the court. Then prom king, Steve Waters, and prom queen, Aimee Kern, were crowned and had their first dance as a royal couple! The night seemed to come to an end before it even began and everyone left with smiles on their faces! Meghan Stark, Matt Short, and Laura Schubert were just a few students who had rockin after parties! Ashley Daubenmire had a fun sleepover with her girlfriends. They all stayed up watching Dumb and Dumber and eating junk food.

Brittney Lambert summed it up by saying that it was the perfect ending to a perfect night. I will always remember these good times spent with my closest friends. People continued to dance the night away at the after parties they attended and there's no question that this was a night the juniors will never forget!

The Prophecy for the Class of 2003!

By: Katie Johnson,
Steph Knowles,
and Lindsay Wyman

Dan Williams

On June 7th, 2023, after working backstage in theaters as a technician, Deirdre Galluzzo decides to leave her cat, pug, fish and frog behind to travel the world. She calls up Kendra Willette, who loves to travel as well, and they decide to track down their graduating class of 2003. The two of them contact Kristin Lewis, who is a well-known National Geographic photographer, and convince her to come along to document their trip. Kristin reluctantly leaves behind her boy and girl and two dogs to travel with Deirdre and Kendra. The three of them decide to start their journey where it all began, so they meet at King Philip Regional High School.

While wandering the halls they spot Charlie McCluer, who is still a student at KPHS. Charlie loves high school so much that he never wants to leave. Charlie leads the three travelers to room 217 where Dan Williams has taken over Miss Coutu's job as yearbook advisor. Dan has devoted his life to yearbooks and has even opened his own yearbook shop where he specializes in prophecy making. After saying good-bye the three travelers leave their high school one last time. Deirdre, Kendra and Kristin stop at a nearby coffee shop to sip java and listen to music. To their surprise they discover the shop's owners are Jen Siakotos and her husband. Along with taking care of her family, Jen dotes on her aquarium filled with goldfish and her guinea pigs. The three travelers are already so exhausted that they then stop to get massages at Michele Martel's spa. Besides her booming business, Michele and her husband have two children who they are always driving to a variety of activities. Michele tells the three travelers about a gorgeous million dollar home that they must stop to visit. When the travelers arrive at the mansion, they run into one of the many maids who inform them that the home is owned by Chris Bright. Impressed, the travelers stop next door to visit Emily Greaves, who is happily married and has a wonderful family. She is very successful in life and loves to relax with her family or sip a cool drink while soaking in her jacuzzi. The travelers stop to fill their tank at the gas station and have just enough time to talk quickly with Kathy Moore who still loves her life in Wrentham.

Christina Powers

Deirdre, Kendra and Kristin continue on exploring the rest of the suburbs of Massachusetts. They spot Liz Martello with her three kids, dropping her dog off at Christina Powers' vet office. Liz is married to Justin Timberlake and can be seen showing off her Mother of the Year Medal. She stops to talk to Jenny St. Amand, who is a successful pharmacist and is also dropping off her cat at the vet. Liz happens to be Christina's and Jen's children's first grade teacher. After going to the vet, the three travelers drive to Dorchester where they are shocked to see Renee Robinson chasing after her 87 dogs and kids. Right next door Ken Tellum is working on his T-Bird after having just returned from his hard day of work as an engineer.

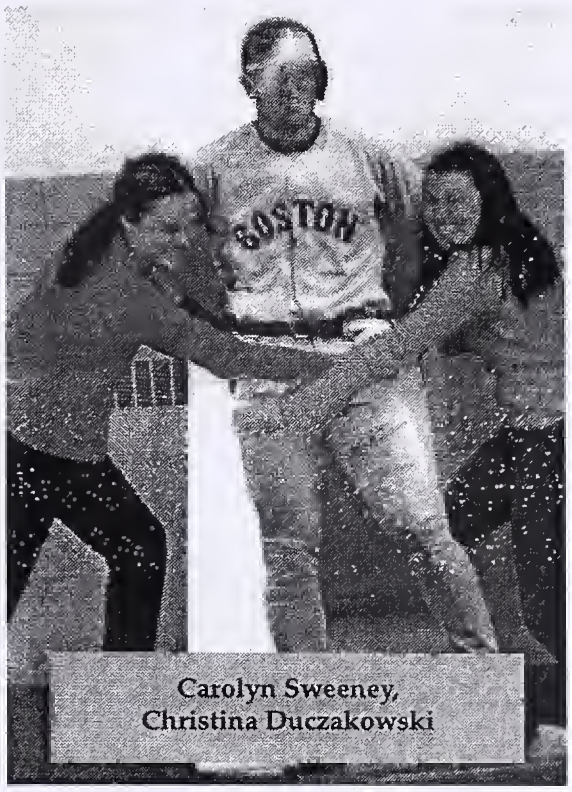
The three travelers decide to visit Boston. They run into Kerri Pedro at a night club wearing a frock from Joanne Caffrey's newest fashion line. As a benefit, Kerri receives free outfits because she is an amazing computer graphics associate for Joanne's fashion merchandise company. Carolyn Sweeney is a star super model whose husband, Nomar Garciaparra, is at an important business meeting with Nathan Partridge who works for the Red Sox. Little does Carolyn know, her best friend Christina Duczakowski has taken over the world. She is presently cheating on her hot, model husband with Nomar. Wait until Carolyn finds out!

The next morning the three travelers get stuck in a parade that is promoting Matt Murphy's television show, "Matt's Magic-Land." Standing next to them are Jenna Kraby, Keith Mattar and Greg Tetreault. The three of them are watching the parade with their children before they head off to work as a school psychologist, biologist, and a successful business man. The guest of honor, Mayor Lizzie Andreozzi, is on the main float with her husband, Derek Zoolander, promoting Matt's show. The three ladies grab a cab heading out of the city and realize that they are sitting with Ben Purkis, a famous theoretical mathematician. Ben informs the travelers that he belongs to a small band and wants to seek help from Nate Schneider, who owns his own recording studio and is always on tour with famous musicians.

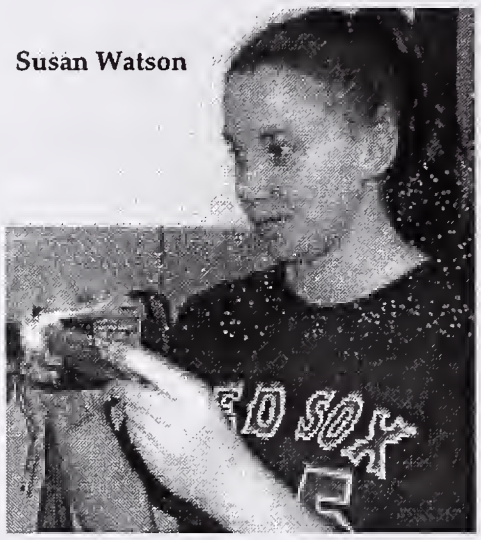


Carolyn Sweeney,
Christina Duczakowski

The three travelers are excited to head off to the Cape and reminisce about their childhood summers spent there. They drive past a sports field and watch the children of Kim Thomas, Nicole Hoyceanyls, Shalyn Simmer and Erica Shapiro play soccer on a team managed by Julie Belek. Both Kim and Nicole are elementary school teachers, and Erica and her husband provide a luxurious environment for their family through their successful jobs. The five of them enjoy going to the beach and hanging out at Shalyn's cute Cape house. The travelers hop on a boat from the Cape and head to Newport, Rhode Island. They spot three gorgeous mansions side by side. They belong to Megan Barry, Kim McNamara and her husband, and Laura Czyzewski and her family. Megan teaches French and coaches high school basketball. Kim's successful job allows her three kids and Chihuahua, Gordo, to live large in Newport. Laura enjoys spending quality tim with her children at the beach. Then Deirdre, Kendra and Kristin drive past Chris Watkins and his wife cheerfully walking down the stree with their two children and Pembroke Welsh Corgi dogs, Tammy and Bonaporte. Chris tells them that he owns his own legal practice but still loves to play Dance Dance Revolution.

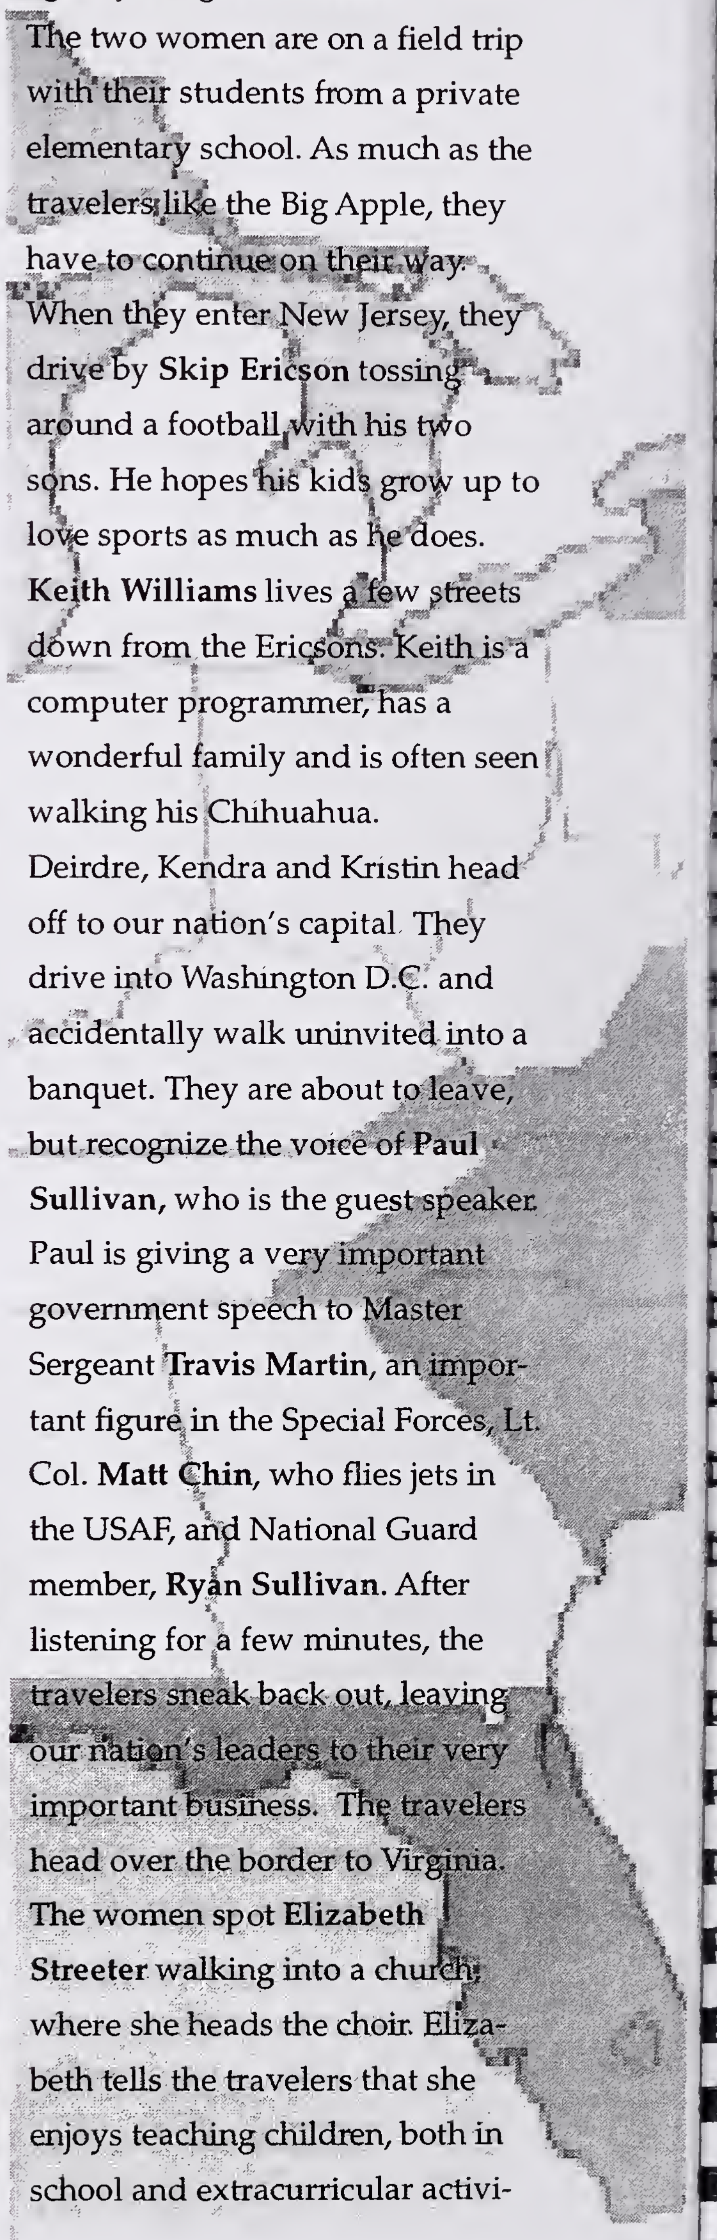
As the travelers are leaving Rhode Island and heading to New York they see an ad on a gigantic billboard advertising Heather Cassidy's athletic training ability. Along with looking after her family, Heather trains her mo famous boxing client, Mike Roach. He has earned a great deal of money and when he is not boxing he works for the criminal justice system. The ad was created byMatt Lawless's advertising agency and he is happily married with a family. Alyssa Bona works with compu ers at the agency and loves staying home with her children Joshua and Meadow Skie. The travelers have had enough of New England fo now, but they will return at the end of their ro trip.

When the travelers enter New York, they stumble upon a movie set. Susan Watson is producing a film starring Melanie Bernier. Despite living in New York, Susan remains an avid Red Sox fan and Melanie enjoys participating in yoga classes to relieve the stress from her family and job. Susan invites the travelers to come along to a Yankees—Red Sox game with her and Kristin Crisafi. Tensions are high as Kristin roots for her husband, Derek Jeter. Fortunately for Kristin, the Yankees win because Nomar is still back in Boston. Walking down the streets, the travelers see Aline Farrow living in her Lexus. They question her as to why she does not have a house and she explains she is waiting to move into her new penthouse because Alicia Giovannelli moved into her old one. Alicia has been very successful working for a top international advertising agency and definitely has the funds to buy out any penthouse in the city.



Susan Watson

The travelers decide to attend a Broadway show that Esther Friedman has composed the music for and Siobhan Barton has designed all the costumes. The three ladies end up sitting next to Marci Wieners, who is living in luxury in the heart of NYC. Jess Murphy comes to say a quick hello to her old classmates; she is attending the show with her co-workers from her successful corporation. All of a sudden, there is a shout from the back of the theater. Kristina Cochrane is once again yelling at Mikaela Noble. The two women are on a field trip with their students from a private elementary school. As much as the travelers like the Big Apple, they have to continue on their way.



When they enter New Jersey, they drive by Skip Ericson tossing around a football with his two sons. He hopes his kids grow up to love sports as much as he does.

Keith Williams lives a few streets down from the Ericsons. Keith is a computer programmer, has a wonderful family and is often seen walking his Chihuahua.

Deirdre, Kendra and Kristin head off to our nation's capital. They drive into Washington D.C. and accidentally walk uninvited into a banquet. They are about to leave, but recognize the voice of Paul Sullivan, who is the guest speaker. Paul is giving a very important government speech to Master Sergeant Travis Martin, an important figure in the Special Forces, Lt. Col. Matt Chin, who flies jets in the USAF, and National Guard member, Ryan Sullivan. After listening for a few minutes, the travelers sneak back out, leaving our nation's leaders to their very important business. The travelers head over the border to Virginia.

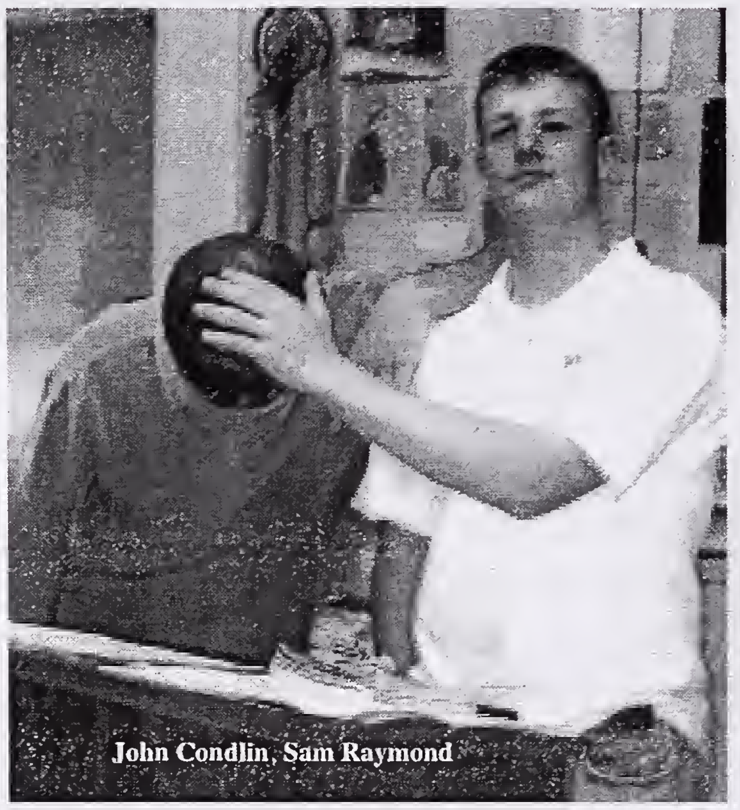
The women spot Elizabeth Streeter walking into a church, where she heads the choir. Elizabeth tells the travelers that she enjoys teaching children, both in school and extracurricular activiat a restaurant. Josh is complimenting Catherine's children on their J-Levenz shoes. Catherine and her rich husband can afford Josh's line of shoes because they are so successful. Josh developed his shoes after retiring from the NBA. The travelers get his autograph before they head to South Carolina. When they enter the new state they become stuck in traffic waiting for a marathon to finish. Jeff Jacobson stands in the crowd cheering on the runners, including former KP track star Chrissy Cummings. Chrissy enjoys vacationing in France almost as much as she loves to run. Mary Beth Anderson, a pediatric nurse, is helping to monitor the health of the runners. After maneuvering out of the traffic jam, Deirdre, Kendra and Kristin drive to the coast. They stop to chat with Victoria Secret model, Laura Gaudioso, who lives in a mansion next door to Lauren Leclerc. Lauren owns her own business; Kayla Thomas, the president of a public relations company, often works with Lauren. The three women head off to Miami where they hear of a huge house party. Jeff Dolan can host the party because he does not have a wife to tie him down. Many KP graduates are attempting to restore their youth by reminiscing together at the same old party scene. Alyson Gavrilles and Leanne Carey are amongst those attending the party. They both work for Lindsay Khouri's marketing agency. Mike Stuart, CEO of a financial marketing agency, lends his expertise to help Lindsay's company. The four of them leave their children at home with their spouses so they can party with their old friends. They spot Shana McElroy and Jill Malcolm, sharing stories about their cheerleading team. Their team got to attend the Superbowl where the Miami Dolphins (the team Shana works for) were playing. Across from Jeff's house on the ocean Alisha Lomasney, a successful National Geographic photographer, waves to her colleague, Kristin, from Nick Lalos's boat. Alisha is taking pictures of Jenna Wirtes's beach house with the sunset in the background. Nick runs his own business and besides boating he likes to golf. Jenna is a personal trainer who has earned quite a lot of money.

Chrissy Cummings

The women decide to visit their former classmates who are now living large in the Caribbean. They board a cruise ship and are immediately met by Dave Beaver, who tries to talk them into buying absurdly expensive fancy Italian bottled water. The girls, however, see through his scheme, and Dave admits he just took water from Mexico and sells it hoping to retire by the age of 45. When the travelers step off the boat and onto land they see Jason Webber herding his brood of kids and bulldogs down the beach. Jason is a multimillionaire and has no reason to use his intelligence and actually work. Brian Tufts is sitting on his dock outside of his chateau writing his next great American novel. Kristen Taylor waves from her yacht; she has her doctorate in physical therapy and loves spending time on her boat with her family and successful siblings. The travelers make one final stop at Jill Petruchik's house. Her husband invites the travelers to sample his delicious barbecue. Jill's penguin, Gordo, pool man, Bob, and neighbor, the Fresh Prince of Belair, are attending the barbecue as well. After filling their stomachs at Jill's, the three travelers reluctantly have to leave the sunny beaches of the Caribbean. They climb onto a jet plane and are heading for a climate shock in Colorado.

After leaving the Denver airport, the women rent a car and head off to their hotel. On the way, they pass Kelly Morrison in her own private moving truck entitled Morrison on the Move. Kelly has lived in all fifty states and has finally decided to settle in Vail where she is going to live a relaxing life and give ski lessons. The travelers decide to visit Breckenridge for a little skiing. They end up on a lift with Justin Bourke and Tim Blinten. Justin enjoys bossing people around at work and playing his guitar in his free time. Tim informs the travelers that he is taking a vacation from his nine daughters and one son. Tim only wanted to have boys so he was thrilled when his last child came along. Tim loves his job and is happy with his life. After a weekend of skiing, they head off to explore the rest of the state. Megan Fogg is cruising around in her Jetta. She is a first grade teacher and keeps in touch with Dan, who helps her produce her elementary school's yearbook. When the travelers reach Wyoming, they find Jason McGrath living a perfect life. He has a gorgeous wife, 2^{1}/2 kids and a dog. Jason is even cooler than he was in high school. Since no one else chose to live in Wyoming, the travelers decide to move on to see Montana.



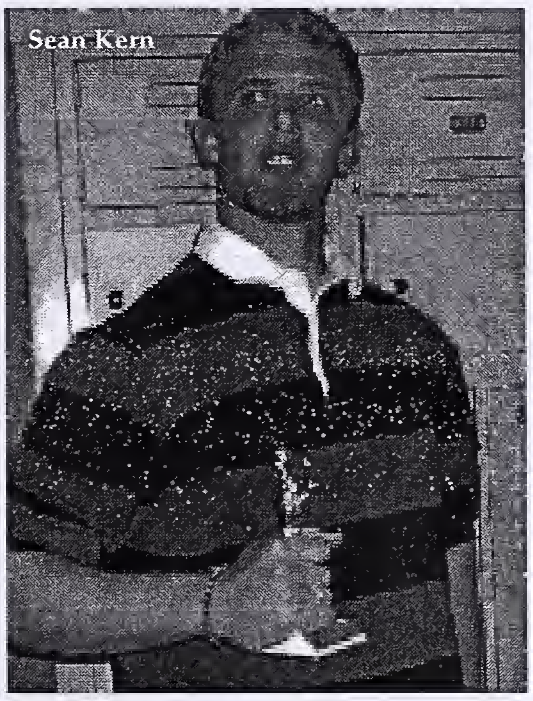
John Condlin, Sam Raymond

In Montana, the travelers are distracted by an entourage of fire trucks. Out of curiosity they follow the trucks and discover that they all stop at Amanda Spinney's farm. All sixteen of her children are stuck in trees and neither she nor her cowboy husband can retrieve them. In the Montana town common, Congressman Sam Raymond is giving a speech about the rights of all balding KP graduates. John Condlin took a special road trip to cheer on Sam. When not listening to balding speeches, John enjoys chilling at home and playing music.

For a complete change of scenery, the travelers head up north to Canada. To start their adventure in Canada, they stop at a park and happen to see Dana Shaw lounging on a park bench. Dana happily tells the travelers that he will never have to work another day in his life because he has just won the world's largest jackpot. With the money he has just acquired, Dana has bought many expensive cars. He informs them that Scott Gagne is the town mechanic who works on everyone's vehicles. Scott lives on a farm and owns a bunch of huskies. He spends time growing his crops and trades them with Abby Dalton, who's the world's greatest pastry chef. The travelers stop at Abby's bakery to sample her delicious treats and then they decide to catch a Maple Leaf hockey game. At the game the travelers see Chad Pouliot. He is watching the game with his two kids. Chad is a scout for the Maple Leaf organization, and his newest player is the team's starting forward. His player just took a shot and it flew over the net and shattered the glass! The game has stopped and it can't continue until the glass is repaired. The three travelers have never seen this before and are wondering about how it is going to be fixed. Suddenly, Kevin Downing, who owns an industrial glass business, comes to the rescue. With his repair kit and a sheet of glass in hand he fixes the problem in record time. Kevin receives a standing ovation and the travelers ask for his autograph before leaving Canada and continuing on their way.

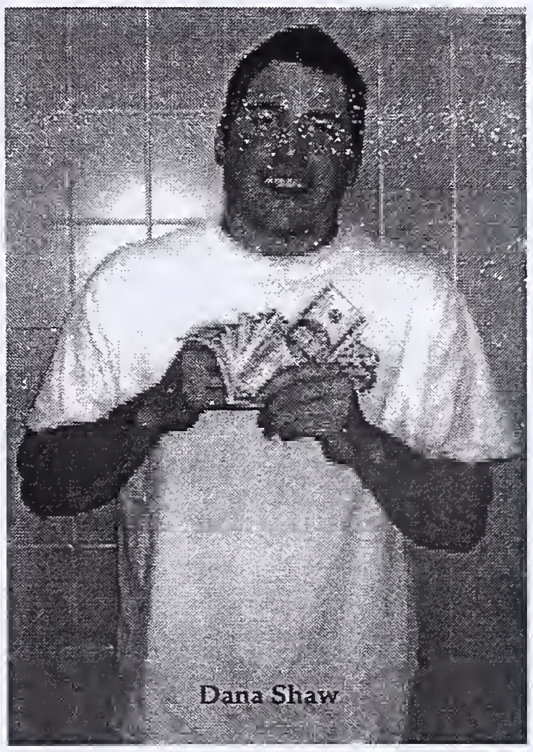
The travelers continue on to Idaho where Harley Holmes owns a bar and Sean Kern resides in the state as Champion of the World. The travelers leave the Potato State to visit Jim Monahan, who is living in a monastery in the Nevada desert. They catch Jim's musical, One Bread, One Body, and are looking forward to reading his upcoming best selling novel based on the musical. The three women then drive to Sin City, Las Vegas, where they spy Sean Maguire living in a ditch. Sean is hiding from loan sharks, the government, and bookies. After saying goodbye to Sean, the women are off to Hollywood to meet their more famous classmates.

Their first stop is Hollywood Boulevard where they see Leah Stewart's star on the famous walkway. They are invited by millionaire Ben Chruney, who made it big as an architect for famous stars, to attend a movie premiere. When they arrive at the premiere they meet the stars of the film, Tina Rogers, who retired as a race car driver, and Emily Jaronski, who is also producing hit records. Cheyne Johnson is the sound engineer, who is also producing his own music, and Rachel Cardillo is the producer. Rachel enjoys traveling to all of her movie sets. After the film Ryan Kelley offers to give the travelers a lift in his limo to their hotel. In the hotel lobby the travelers chat with Amanda Barrett whose philosophy is to live life step by step.



Sean Kern

All the glam and glitter of Hollywood is getting to the travelers so they decide to have a night out at the beach. Upon reaching a beach club the advertisements out front read "DJ CoFo's Last Appearance." The travelers don't want to miss this opportunity and they head inside. Colleen Foley is having a blast DJing for her final event before becoming a full time teacher. Her wickedly hot husband and four kids dance the night away to her body slammin' beats. Kate Sullivan and Chris Catani are both there with their kids as well. Each of them is married and Kate teaches at the same school as Colleen. The travelers bump into Megan Demers, who's sporting her House Wife of the Year pin. Megan spends her time at the party doting on her two sons and daughter. Nicole Puddester and Siobhan Howard come to the party with their total of seven kids. Siobhan is a professional soccer player and Nicole enjoys working with people and tanning on the beach. The travelers are enjoying the party when all of a sudden a commotion breaks out. Jill Dubendris has run into one of her junior high students; afraid that she cannot escape from the kids she feels she might have a heart attack. Luckily, Barry Costello has just pulled up in his new Beamer after just receiving his license. He rushes Jill to the hospital where she is cared for by Nicole Fleck and Lisa Donovan. Nicole has succeeded in life by finding a cure for muscular dystrophy which has helped her brother to walk again. Lisa enjoys cruising around in her BMW with her two kids.



Dana Shaw

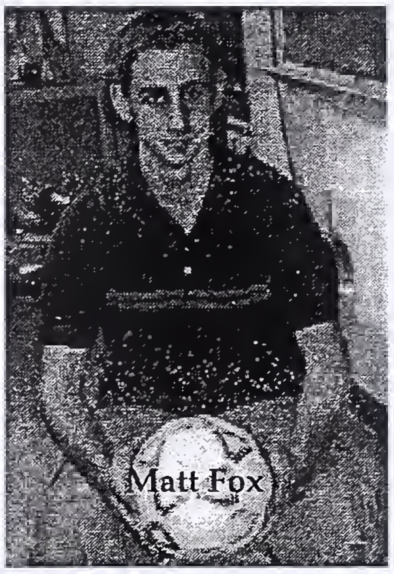
Kendra, Deirdre, and Kristin hop on a plane and head for Hawaii. The travelers feel very safe flying because Miranda Converse is their pilot. Along with flying planes, Miranda is a psychologist and lives in a hut near the ocean. Thankfully, Miranda is trustworthy because all of a sudden a rocket flies in front of the plane. Allie Byrne, a rocket scientist, accidentally misfired one of her experimental rockets. Allie's glad that no one was hurt and she leaves work early to return home to her sexy husband, kids, kitten and prize winning pig. When the travelers land at the airport they spot Steph Howard arguing with one of the managers of the airport. Steph is an interior designer and feels the decor of the airport is just not up to her standards. When not convincing people to redecorate, Steph enjoys bumming around on the beach with her husband and kids. The travelers' first stop is a beach where Molly Bloomer is painting the beautiful landscape. Molly enjoys being a free-lance artist because it offers her an escape from her twelve kids, parrot and goat. The women decide to stretch their legs after a long plane ride so they take a walk on the beach. While on their stroll, they pass an intense game of beach volleyball. Three of the players are former KP grads. Rob Tangstrom enjoys the warm weather in Hawaii, Ian Stone is living out his dreams and is very content with his life, and Seth Weaver lives in a mansion nearby with his tons of cash. Deirdre decides she wants to jet ski; while on her jet ski she passes by Cate Smith and her family on their boat. Cate enjoys taking her two pugs for walks. Also on the boat is Nicole Thomas and her husband, four kids, and puppy. Nicole runs a daycare center that Cate's children attend. Out of nowhere a huge cruise ship passes by. Bret Tolivaisa leans over the boat's railing to wave. Bret is an environmental engineer and is at a company gathering; he loves to attend concerts and sporting events with his family and dogs. Reluctantly the travelers must leave Hawaii but now they get to fly to Australia! While on the plane, the women end up sitting next to Chris Matte. Chris lives in Bora Bora on a beach and loves cruising around in his fast car. Chris is flying on a business trip with his sucessful company.
As soon as the travelers set foot on land they hear about a local petting zoo. The zoo actually is run by three local families and is a collection of their pets. Mike Foley is a programmer for a videogame company. He is happily married and owns several wild cats including a cougar and a tiger that are part of the zoo. Brett Prevost has a trophy wife and home, along with a fast car. Brett has given permission for his pet kangaroo to be part of the town's petting zoo. Lindsay Marshak's koala bear and Tasmanian devil are the zoo's main attraction. Lindsay is a marine biologist and has a wonderful husband and kids. The travelers are admiring all of the animals when Julie Mulcahy parachutes out of the sky. Julie is not only a licensed skydiver, wife, and mother but she is also a travelling correspondent for MTV and has decided to focus on exotic animals for this week's show. Brett Lavalla arrives with his wife and kids. Brett is so rich that he can travel anywhere and he informs the three women that Biz Cove and Steve Erwin are doing a special Crocodile Hunter series just down the road. After the travelers watch the show they learn from Biz that she is having an affair with Steve! The travelers enjoyed catching up with their old friends but now they have to visit New Zealand.

Molly Bloomer

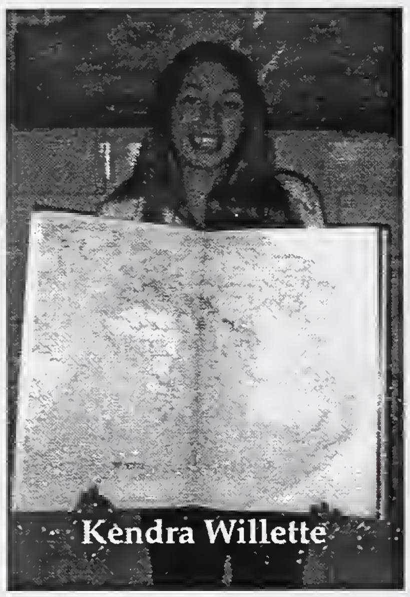
and decide to go for a scenic hike. While walking through the beautiful countryside, they run into Katie Clancy who loves her life working at her creative job and enjoying the company of her friends and family. Further on in their walk in Matamata the travelers run into Chrissy Gilbert and Kathleen O'Neil who live side by side in their Hobbit holes. Chrissy is working on her first novel The Climatology of Middle Earth due in January, 2024. Kathleen is an artist and a photographer who also enjoys riding her two horses.

The travelers' next stop is Europe. On the plane the women run into Jeff LaRue who informs them that he lives in Katmandu where he is a nomadic salt trader. Jeff also tells them that his friend Matt Fox is living in China and makes a living sewing soccer balls. When they reach London, the travelers run into Lauren Briere who has become the next Norman Rockwell of the art world. She lives on the edge of the earth with her head in the clouds. The women walk down the street to get something to eat, but then a flier catches their eye. A ping pong championship game is being held at this very moment and the defending champion is Minhaj Rahman. The travelers rush to see the match and get there just in time to watch Minhaj win. Not only is he the ping pong champion but he is striving to become ruler of the world. After recovering from the excitement of the tournament, the travelers head to a local art gallery. They run into Janine Molino who is traveling the world and heard about Lauren Flocco's finger painting exhibit at the museum. Along with her finger painting, Lauren is busy writing poetry, and acting in a local theater. The travelers love England, but have to leave to travel to Italy. Upon reaching Milan, Italy, the travelers attend a fashion show where Katie Sevy is the featured designer with her husband as the head model for the men's clothing. Katie enjoys spending time on her yacht in the Mediterranean. Before hopping on a train headed to France, the travelers run into Jeff Gustafson who is a well-known psychologist with three kids, a wife and a ferret named Duke. The travelers spend another day enjoying all of the beautiful sights, and then after seeing a brochure about France's beaches they pack up and head north.

While strolling on the beach in the South of France, the women see from afar a man being fed grapes and lathered up with sunscreen by gorgeous women. They assume he probably grew up in a mansion on some private island. However, as they approach the women realize that the spoiled, rich man is good old, Wrenthaminian Brian Oles. Brian informs them that he doesn't always lie around; once in a while he actually leaves his lounge chair to trade some shares of stock and make another million. Farther down the beach is a woman playing in the sand with her children, it is Jess Allen who is living a good life with her family. Jess informs the ladies of a local vineyard that is having a wine tasting party that they should attend. Much to the surprise of the travelers, the vineyard is owned by Jill Jackson and her super hot, director-husband. Jill also is well known for her skills as a child psychologist and it is a good thing because she has five kids of her own. The women make a final stop in Amsterdam to visit with Pete Morriss. Pete is found relaxing in the shade on his ranch situated on the rolling green hills with his family. The travelers now are going to return home and revisit New England to catch up with the classmates that they missed.



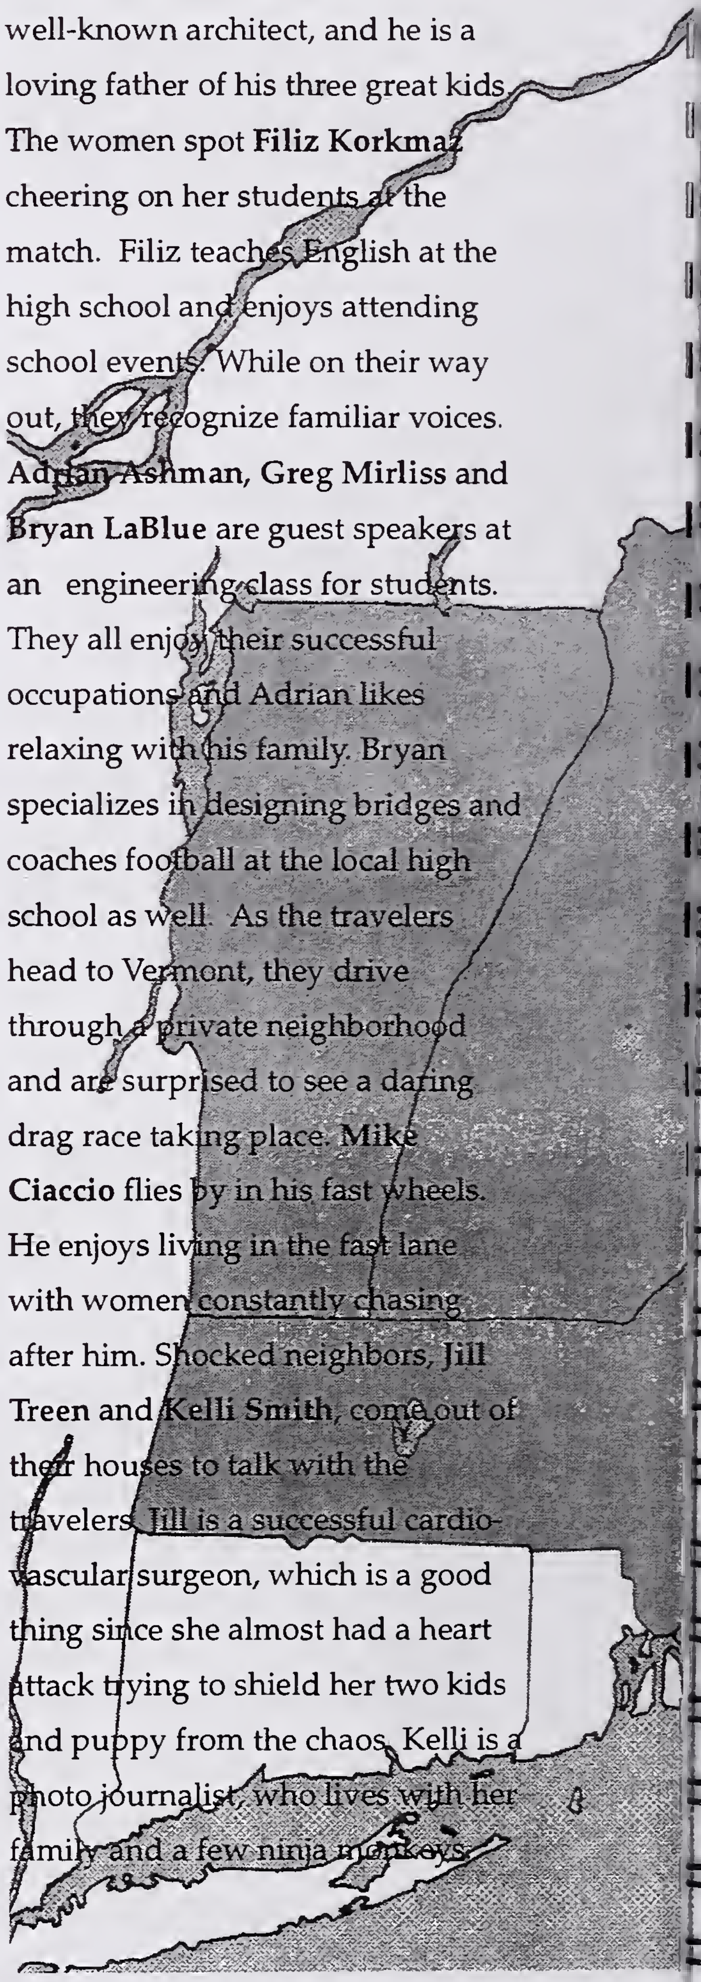
Matt Fox

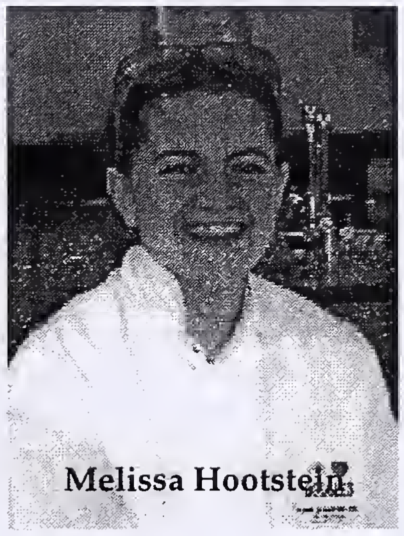


Kendra Willette

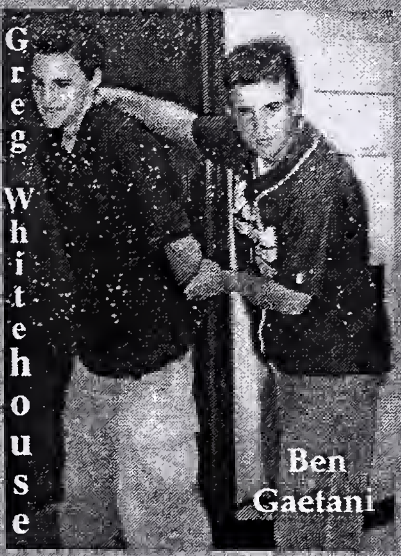
When the plane lands in the U.S. the women make their first stop in New England this time around in Maine. The travelers realize that they are very hungry so they head off in search of some food. While walking down the street they bump into Lindsay King who is out walking her dog. Lindsay has had enough of living in reality, and enjoys relaxing and being happy with her career and family. When questioned about the whereabouts of other KP grads Lindsay tells them that Ian Cooper is her next door neighbor who works in the pit crew of a Winston Cup Car for NASCAR and is striving to be a professional race car driver. Lindsay then points the women in the direction of a local restaurant. Mike O'Connell is the owner and head cook of the restaurant and enjoys outdoor sports and spending time with his dogs. The restaurant features live music; several former KP students are performing. Ross LaBrie is there playing, with his wife and two kids watching as they eat. Ross is not only a musician but also a music producer. Sebastian Zervos is a traveling musician who is being featured as well. Seb lives on a lake and loves his life. Tom Hayes is playing the acoustic guitar. Tom spends most of his time spending his mad loot, hitting the dank slopes and relaxing with his family. As the travelers sit down to eat, they realize that they are surrounded by old classmates. Brian Furbush is dining with his wife and two kids. He has lots of free time as he retired at the early age of thirty-five. Jake Douglas is also chowing at the restaurant. He lives in a cottage and spends his time hiking and mountain biking. Seated to the right of the travelers are Caitlyn Hawkins, Elizabeth Giordano and Jeannel Lake. Caitlyn and Elizabeth are social workers who confer constantly with psychologist Jeannel. The three ladies are having a business meeting as they eat. They all enjoy vacationing with their families. Further back in the restaurant, friends Jackie Olson and Steve Dacko are having a quiet dinner. Steve has a unique job of not only playing music but also raising llamas. Jackie has a happy life with her family, friends and job.

The travelers leave Maine to head down to New Hampshire. They had heard earlier that Shannon Steele had won the U.S. Open so they went to the local high school, where Shannon is a tennis coach, to congratulate her. After watching the practice for a while, they then go to see a wrestling match. Brian Hill is the coach, along with being a well-known architect, and he is a loving father of his three great kids. The women spot Filiz Korkmaz cheering on her students at the match. Filiz teaches English at the high school and enjoys attending school events. While on their way out, they recognize familiar voices. Adrian Ashman, Greg Mirliss and Bryan LaBlue are guest speakers at an engineering class for students. They all enjoy their successful occupations and Adrian likes relaxing with his family. Bryan specializes in designing bridges and coaches football at the local high school as well. As the travelers head to Vermont, they drive through a private neighborhood and are surprised to see a daring drag race taking place. Mike Ciaccio flies by in his fast wheels. He enjoys living in the fast lane with women constantly chasing after him. Shocked neighbors, Jill Treen and Kelli Smith, come out of their houses to talk with the travelers. Jill is a successful cardiovascular surgeon, which is a good thing since she almost had a heart attack trying to shield her two kids and puppy from the chaos. Kelli is a photo journalist, who lives with her family and a few ninja monkeys.





Melissa Hootstein



After reaching Vermont, the women decide to take a break and go catch a movie. Standing in line for popcorn, they bump into Kim McNamara with an armful of treats for her three children. Kim tells them that the movie features Brandi Hamlin's husband and both of them are there to promote the movie. James Walsh is the owner of the cinema and he is all smiles because Brandi and her husband's appearance has brought in a lot of money. During the actual film, Tim Burt is asked to leave because his penguin, Penguin, is creating a disturbance. Tim is forced to drag his kids, Broadi, Gavin, Logan, Gwen and Mackenzie (all wearing matching Sponge Bob pants) out of the theatre. After viewing the movie, the women get a chance to speak with Brandi, and they discover that she was the inspiration for the film. Once again the travelers return to Massachusetts. They pick up a magazine from a news stand and recognize Brett Amidon's picture on the cover. Courtney Woods wrote the feature article about a film that Adam Harcovitz directed, telling the story of Brett's life and how he became a billionaire. Along with being an independent film director, writer, and producer, Adam is an amateur quantum physicist who resides in Norfolk. Brett enjoys jetting off frequently to the Playboy Mansion and Courtney spends quality time with her four children and husband. All of a sudden a commotion catches the travelers' eyes. Convicts Greg Whitehouse and Shawn Coulsey have escaped from Norfolk House of Corrections and are being chased down by police officer Ben Gaetani. Ben has a big house, nice car, and hot wife with a smoking body. As a safety precaution, the jail sent ER doctor, Melissa Hootstein. Melissa has an apartment in Boston and a house on the Cape. Fortunately, the arrest is made quickly and with no injuries. Deirdre, Kendra, and Kristin continue their search for old classmates. They attend a block party that Vanessa Sotir is hosting. Vanessa is successful and happy and lives each day to happy and lives each day to the fullest. Kevin Teiner arrives at the party in his Shelby Mustang GT500 with his wife and two sons. The last KP grad to attend the party is Brendan Ford who makes tons of money but still finds plenty of free time. Brendan informs the travelers that Doug Huber also has a house in the neighborhood, but can't attend the party because he is too busy consoling Ryan Johnson. Ryan is depressed because he has repeatedly begged Katie Johnson to leave her husband and marry him; Katie adamantly refuses. Doug has a little more luck in his life right now. He has a winning position in the World Rally Championships along with a great wife, many cars and a couple of little squirts. Katie resides in Dover with neighbor Stephanie Knowles. They co-own a riding stable, both have families and both teach at a local elementary school. Lindsay Wyman also teaches second grade at the same school, but her classroom is filled with all boys. Lindsay has one daughter and three sons and loves taking them to sporting events with husband, Tom Brady.

After the exciting trip the travelers are reluctant to leave high school behind for good. They head back to KPHS, say good-bye to each other and part ways with their Class of 2003 for a final time.

You're the best! Jeff Jacobson: If I write anything too specific here, it will surely cheapen with age. Any private jokes that I've shared with friends will have long since left my memory as I look back to these pages ten, twenty, fifty years later. I also won't make any reference to the fate of my material possessions, since they too, are fleeting. I feel I've left my mark as well as anyone could at this school, but it hardley matters. Within four years, any student who knows me will be gone. Soon afterwaed, my former teachers will one by one begin to retire. How long until Jeff Jacobson is just one more name among the unread and dusty tomes of school records? I don't need to leave anything. For the record, though, I'm sick of New England winters, of asbestos in the hallways, of rotting tiles and crowded classrooms and moving to bells. I hate cafeteria food and graded homework. Homeroom is a waste of my state-funded education time, as well as hall passes and Wellness Day. That's mostly superficial. I like to think that those who have known me as a friend would believe that I've already left them something of improtance. Anyone that I want to say goodbye to is someone that I'll be seeing again. Emily Jaronski: Renee Robinson: Uxbridge (the bridge), Helen's gas station, good thing I'm funny, because it's your dog!!!, whlaa!, dying giraffe, *what does a yellow light mean?
